A LOT OF LAUGHS FOR THE GASLESS MOTORIST

Nobel Author Solzhenitsyn Deported To West Germany

Russians Say Family Can Join Him Later

FRANKFURT (UPI) — Russia's most famous living author, dissident Nobel Prize winner Alexander I. Solzhenitsyn, was stripped of his Soviet citizenship today and deported into exile in West Germany.

Solzhenitsyn, 55, arrived here on a Soviet Aeroflot plane and was escorted down the passenger ramp by an airline security man. The official Soviet Tass agency said that his wife and three small children will be allowed to join him later.

Solzhenitsyn's wife, Natalya, remained behind in Moscow where seven Russian policemen forced their way into the author's apartment yesterday and led him away after he had refused to obey two summons.

Solzhenitsyn is the first Soviet citizen against whom such action has been taken in 45 years. The last citizen to be exiled against his will was Leon Trotsky, who was deported to Turkey in 1929 after losing a power struggle with dictator Josef V. Stalin.

Solzhenitzyn's deportation climaxed a Soviet campaign against him that began after his latest book, "The Gulag Archipelago," was published in the West. It is a history of the Soviet forced labor system.

Solzhenitsyn's fellow Nobel prize winner, West German author Heinrich Boell, was quoted by the West German news agency DPA as saying that Solzhenitsyn would arrive to stay with him tonight at his country home west of Cologne.

A West German spokesman had announced that his government had agreed to accept the Nobel prize winner when Russia informed West Germany he was coming.

The Tass statement in Moscow said:

"By the decree of the Presidium of the USSR Supreme Soviet, A. I. Solzhenitsyn has been stripped of citizenship of the USSR for performing systematically actions that are incompatible with being a citizen of the USSR and detrimental to the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and was expelled from the Soviet Union on February 13, 1974.

"Solzhenitsyn's family can join him when they deem it necessary."

Solzhenitsyn's wife told newsmen tonight in Moscow she had not been informed of the official decision and had no comment.

"I will not really believe it until I hear his voice telling me it is true," Mrs. Natalya Solzhenitsyn told newsmen who called at her apartment in central Moscow. "If he can, I know he will call me."

Her eyes were red. She looked distraught and she said, "We are all very upset." Behind her, her mother held one of Solzhenitsyn's three sons. The boy was crying.

"Now he is in a free country he will be able to tell everything himself," she said. "I

Joint Oil Stance Approved

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States won agreement today of 12 allies, including France, to work toward an international solution to the energy crisis and a search for cooperative efforts with Arab and other oil-producing states.

France, whose chronic quarrel with her Common Market partners spilled over onto the United States in the three-day Energy Conference of oil-consuming nations, went along with the general decision but differed from the other 12 in many details.

France did agree with the foreign ministers' statement in a draft communique that present petroleum prices confronted "the structure of world trade and finance with an unprecedented situation" with which no single country could deal alone.

The foreign ministers agreed "the present situation, if continued, could lead to a serious deterioration in income and employment, intensify inflationary pressures, and endanger the welfare of nations."

France had made clear from the start that it felt the oil crisis should be handled through established international bodies such as the Organization of Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) and the World Bank.

Paris argued that any concerted action by major oil consuming nations, particularly if the initiative appeared to come from Washington, would arouse Arab suspicions and the possibility of further retaliatory action.

The French attitude forced the scheduled two-day conference into a third day and agreement on a final communique still had not been reached at midday.

After the morning session, British Foreign Minister Sir Alec Douglas Home said there was "broad agreement on a producer-consumer conference."

Hearst: Food Plan Impossible

BERKELEY (UPI) — The father of kidnaped Patricia Hearst said today a demand by the terrorist group which holds his daughter is "impossible to meet" and promised he would offer a counter-proposal.

Newspaper publisher Randolph A. Hearst, his hand shaking nervously as he spoke to newsmen outside his suburban Hillsborough mansion, said the demand by the Symbionese Liberation Army yesterday for a massive food distribution scheme to an estimated 4.7 million needy people was not within his power to meet.

"The original demand, as I was afraid, is impossible to meet," he said. "But we will try our best to come back with a counter-offer that's acceptable."

Hearst said he hoped to have the counter proposal within 24 to 48 hours.

It was estimated that the ransom demand could cost more than $300 million. An FBI spokesman said earlier it was in the "realm of unreasonableness."

As a gesture of good faith, the SLA demanded that $70 worth of free food be given to poor and needy persons in California during a four-week period beginning next Tuesday.

"It's difficult," Hearst said, "because we have nothing more to negotiate with except a letter that takes two or three days to arrive."

Speaking directly to his 19-year-old captive daughter, Hearst said: "Tell them (the SLA) not to worry, no one will come busting in. Take care of yourself. Everyone is praying for you.

"Patty, I hope you are listening. We are really pleased to know you are okay. You sounded tired or sedated but you sounded okay. We assume the people that have you are taking good care of you."

As Hearst spoke, Mrs. Hearst, in tears, stood by his side, holding his hand.

Mrs. Hearst said: "We love you, Patty. We'll all be praying for you. They have good ideals. They're just going about it in the wrong way. God bless you, honey."

"The demands are very high

County Recorder Seeks Reelection

Marin County Recorder Noel T. Giacomini announced today he will seek a seventh term to the post he has held since 1950.

"Twenty-four years in office has accorded me experience in responding to administrative responsibilities," he said in making his announcement. "I am grateful to the people of Marin County who have retained me in the job I love to serve."

Giacomini, 60, who has never been opposed, is the father of Supervisor Gary T. Giacomini. He and his wife, Donna, also have a duaghter, Roberta Powers of Marinwood.

The recorder's office, responsible for safeguarding various documents and records which serve as the legal basis for determining land ownership, among other things, is no drain on the taxpayers since revenues more than offset expenditures, Giacomini said.

The recorder, who has served longer than any other elected county official in office today, enjoys sailing, golfing and playing basketball in his off hours.

He is a native of San Francisco and attended the University of San Francisco as a pre-law student and San Francisco State College, where he studied music and social science.

Demos Will Headquarter In John Burton's Office

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Marin Democratic officials, spurning cries "it stinks," last night voted by a narrow margin to put their office in the headquarters of one of the seven candidates for their party's nomination for Congress.

The 9-7 vote by the Marin County Democratic Central Committee came after almost a half-hour of heated argument over the propriety of renting office space in the headquarters of Assemblyman John L. Burton of San Francisco, candidate for the party's nomination in the Fifth Congressional District.

Opponents of the action, proposed by committee chairman Robert E. Mertle of San Rafael, objected that state law expressly bars central committees from endorsing candidates in

It's Too Soon To Tell If Gas Plan Working

By FRANK FARRARA

Novato gasoline stations had varying reaction to a new system, uniform opening from 7 a.m. to 9 a.m., to avert long lineups at the pumps.

About half a dozen reported business the same as usual, four reported an increase and two reported fewer customers.

William Barnes of the Texaco station at 200 San Marin Drive, said his station was "like a madhouse," Barnes said he was limiting sales to 10 gallons per customer. The 13 other participating station owners said they were pumping gasoline without limit.

Redwood Shell at 7300 Redwood Highway reported "new faces" from outside the city at the station this morning as a result of yesterday's story in the Independent-Journal.

One of the participating stations wasn't open because it was out of gasoline and another expected to run out today.

Elton Hasstedt of the Chevron station at Seventh Street and Grant Avenue said he didn't believe the result of the new system of uniform opening would be apparent for a few days.

Under the system, stations are guaranteeing they will be open at least from 7 a.m. to 9 a.m., but also probably will be open at other hours, including late afternoon, and will have service bays open all day.

A couple of stations stopped pumping gasoline at 9 a.m. to reopen for an hour or two in the afternoon, while others expected to last until 10, or noon or 1 p.m. before closing the pumps for the day.

Some dealers who have had regular afternoon openings said they expected to continue those

BRUCE B. BALES

Bales Is After Another District Attorney Term

Marin County's district attorney for the past 10 years, Bruce B. Bales, announced yesterday that he is running for reelection.

Two other lawyers also have said they intend to seek the $33,204-a-year post, which will be on the June 4 ballot. They are Harry A. Connick, 51, partner in a San Rafael law firm, and Edward M. Krug, 31-year-old San Rafael resident and a deputy district attorney in Sonoma County.

Bales, 50, was appointed district attorney in 1964 after Roger P. Garety resigned to go into private practice. Bales since has been reelected twice to four-year terms.

In announcing his candidacy, Bales said, "Though Marin County has participated in the general metropolitan growth of the Greater Bay Area (in the past 10 years), this change has occurred with substantially less law enforcement problems than those experienced by our neighboring counties."

He also noted that the past 10 years have seen "profound judicial, legislative and social changes. Some of these have been part of an orderly system of change and progress; many have been violent and tumultuous in nature."

"These changes have presented to law enforcement in general and my office in particular, a clear challenge to vigorously but fairly enforce the law in such manner as to protect the rights of all and to preserve in

North Bay Dairymen Seek Hikes

By PAT ANGLE

The retail price of milk — which jumped an unprecedented 10 cents a half-gallon last year — will have to be increased again next month to help dairymen caught in a production cost squeeze.

That was the word today from John E. Rossi, controller of the Petaluma Co-Operative Creamery which represents more than 100 of Sonoma's more than 150 dairies.

"If we don't get the increase, the dairymen are going to be in real trouble," he said. "It's almost impossible for them to keep up with the rising costs of producing milk."

The dilemma is the same for Marin's approximately 80 dairies, according to farm adviser Don Brittsan. "The economic situation is not good at all. People are losing a lot of money."

Without a jump in milk prices, it is going to be "pretty tough sledding" for the local dairy industry, Brittsan added.

Industry officials have said they will ask the state, which controls milk prices, for a price rise of four cents per half-gallon. The exact amount will be determined following a hearing Feb. 27-28 by the state Department of Agriculture's Milk Stabilization Unit in Sacramento.

California is divided up into milk marketing areas with the nighest price, 72 cents per half gallon, being charged in Siskiyou County and the lowest, 63 cents, in Sacramento and San Luis Obispo. The present cost in

West German Strike Meeting

BONN (UPI) — West German Chancellor Willy Brandt today met with his cabinet for two hours and then called the heads of state governments to Bonn to discuss the latest proposal to end a disruptive, three-day civil servants strike.

Brandt

The two sides were only one-half percentage point of a pay raise apart.

The public service employes federation said today it would order its members back to work for an 11 per cent pay hike. The union had demanded 15 per cent earlier.

Brandt's government first offered the civil servants, ranging from airport employes to garbage collectors and mailmen, 9.5 per cent, then raised its offer to 10 and finally to 10.5 on Tuesday.

Assassination Plot

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — The Argentine government announced last night it had smashed a plot to assassinate President Juan D. Peron, Vice President Maria Estella de Peron, and Uruguayan President Juan Maria Bordaberry.

Federal Police Chief Miguel Angel Iniguez police arrested an Argentine guerrilla for a planned hand grenade attack on Peron and Bordaberry as they rode together in a ceremonial car during the Uruguayan's brief visit to Buenos Aires yesterday. The visit went off without incident.

Tent Bombed

BELFAST (UPI) — A bomb destroyed a work tent on a Belfast street today 10 minutes before six Roman Catholics were to enter it to start a day's work.

Detectives said the bomb, which only slightly injured a passing motorist, had almost certainly been intended to kill the Catholic workers in the continuing vengeance campaign of Protestant extremists.

Gunmen have killed four Catholics in the past five days to avenge the 12 who died in a bomb explosion aboard a bus carrying British airmen and their families a week ago in England.

The Ulster Freedom Fighters (UFF) said they will kill a Catholic for each of the victims.

Train Off Tracks

STRATTON, NEB. (UPI) — Four cars of a 10-car San Francisco-to-Chicago Amtrak passenger train jumped the tracks near this southwestern Nebraska ranch community last night. At least 21 persons were injured, none seriously.

Several kitchen employes were scalded by boiling water that sloshed on them when the dining car leaned at a 45 degree angle.

Other victims were treated for cuts and bruises and released.

Recruit Quality

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Air Force Secretary John L. McLucas says the service is getting a higher standard of recruit, and is completely satisfied with the all-volunteer force.

"We have been able to operate successfully without the draft incentive, and the Air Force is very pleased with the results," he said in a speech.

Official figures show that in the July-December period last year less than 1 per cent of the Air Force recruits were "Category IV's" — the military designation for a man with a low intelligence score.

Some personnel experts feel the Air Force may actually be taking in too few of these. They suggest that with so few Category IVs the Air Force will end up assigning smarter men to do simple chores which will lead to dissatisfication and a drop in morale.

Calley Appeal

COLUMBUS, Ga. (UPI) — Attorneys for 1st Lt. William Calley have turned to the federal courts in an apparent all-out effort to reverse his My Lai murder conviction and 20-year sentence.

One of Calley's attorneys, Kenneth Henson of Columbus, held a news conference yesterday and announced that U.S. District Judge J. Robert Elliott has scheduled a hearing Feb. 27 on a writ of habeas corpus aimed at freeing Calley.

At the same time, Elliott also issued a restraining order against the Army forbidding the transfer of Calley from the jurisdiction of the U.S. District Court, Georgia Middle District, Columbus Division.

Reagan Cautious

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI) — California Gov. Ronald Reagan said yesterday he doesn't want to "take a chance" by commenting on the kidnaping of newspaper publisher Randolph A. Hearst's daughter.

"The situation is so delicate and we have been in constant communication with all levels of law enforcement on this and I just don't feel I should take a chance and make any comment on this of any kind," Reagan said during a speaking tour.

Appeal Planned

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Army says it plans to appeal a federal court ruling that bans the 25-year-old Army practice of "coding" honorable discharges to indicate some soldiers were actually troublemakers.

U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell struck down the practice in an order signed last Friday that also declared unconstitutional the Army European Command's program for ferreting out suspected drug users.

First Skylab 3 Photos Published

HOUSTON (UPI) — The first pictures taken by the Skylab 3 astronauts have been made public. The seven color photographs show Skylab floating in space and one of the astronauts floating in Skylab.

Two of the pictures are of Skylab, one of which was taken as the astronauts were returning to Earth last Friday following their record-shattering 84-day, 34-½ million mile flight.

Two of the pictures released yesterday were of the Earth, one showing snow covered Yellowstone National Park and the other of the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

The other three were shots taken inside the space station of the astronauts at work. One showed Gerald P. Carr wearing shorts, tennis shoes, a t-shirt and a crash helmet flying around the station with a machine strapped to his back that looks like a cross between a Buck Rogers-James Bond invention.

The third shot shows Gibson sitting at the telescopes he used to watch the sun. Gibson spent more time watching the sun during the flight than on any other one activity.

Gibson, Carr and Pogue are currently going through a series of discussions about their mission and a battery of medical tests. A rigorous preliminary examination conducted on the recovery ship USS New Orleans indicated the three astronauts were in perfect health.

Red Offensive

SAIGON (UPI) — North Vietnamese troops, supported by rockets and mortars, today attacked a government base near Kontum province capital in the Central Highlands. Intelligence officers said it could mark the start of an expected regional Communist offensive.

Dellums Not Avoiding Bill For Son

OAKLAND (UPI) — Rep. Ronald V. Dellums denies trying to avoid paying the $1,700 owed to Alameda County for the care of his son in a boys' home.

The East Bay Democrat said yesterday he had received the bill, had given it to his attorney and that "no attempt was made to resist the obligation."

Previously deputy county counsel Peter Lachappelle had said the county might file a civil action to recover the money.

Dellums' 16-year-old son pleaded guilty to robbing a market last June and was committed to an indefinite term at Boys' Republic, a private institution at Chino.

The son had been living with his mother, Mrs. Arthurine Dellums, the congressman's first wife.

Social Security Checks Delayed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The federal Social Security office in San Francisco said yesterday that between 10,000 and 12,000 checks had been delayed in reaching recipients.

"We're having computer problems," said Edward Kramer, a public affairs officer.

Last month more than 30,000 eligible Californians had to wait for the checks.

Kramer said the problem last month "was due to people having the wrong addresses on file."

"This time the computer had trouble with husbands and wives—one person would receive a check while the other one didn't."

Emergency loans can be arranged through Social Security offices, he said.

Peace Progress, Oil Talks Set By Arabs

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Leaders of four Arab countries headed for a summit meeting in Algiers today to discuss peace progress in the Middle East and consider easing the Arab oil embargo against the United States.

To await the outcome of the summit, a full meeting of the Organization of Arab Petroleum Exporting Countries (OAPEC) scheduled to begin tomorrow in Tripoli, Libya, was postponed.

Algerian officials said the talks between the heads of state of Egypt, Syria, Saudi Arabia and Algeria probably would not begin until late today but there were no indications how long they would last. By midday, none of the three visiting heads of state had arrived in Algiers.

Riyadh Radio said King Faisal of Saudi Arabia left by special plane for Algiers accompanied by a high-ranking government delegation including Foreign Minister Omar Sakkaf and Oil Minister Ahmed Zaki Yamani. Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's departure was reported from Cairo.

Sadat, who took the initiative for the meeting, is reported to be pleased by the smooth progress in troop disengagement on the Suez front between Egypt and Israel and favors a similar deal between Syria and Israel along the volatile Golan Heights truce lines.

MAYOR TOM BRADLEY
The most popular

A Cranston Poll Puts Him Second

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley has emerged as the most popular politician in California and President Nixon is the least well-liked, an opinion poll released by U.S. Sen. Alan Cranston indicated today.

Cranston, a Democrat who plans to seek reelection to a second term, finished second behind Bradley. He was followed by Democratic U.S. Sen. John V. Tunney, Gov. Ronald Reagan and Nixon.

The public opinion poll was conducted for Cranston by pollster Pat Caddell, who performed similar surveys for 1972 Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern.

The sampling surveyed 1,200 to 1,500 registered Ralifornia voters in late January, a Cranston spokesman said. It cost about $25,000 and was described as a standard statewide poll.

Bradley, who ousted Sam Yorty last May to become the first black mayor of Los Angeles, received a whopping 63 per cent favorable rating in the poll and unfavorable marks from only 5 per cent. Others had no opinion.

Cranston received a 54 per cent favorable rating and an unfavorable rating from 24 per cent. Tunney trailed at 49 per cent favorable, 30 per cent unfavorable; Reagan at 48 per cent favorable, 49 per cent unfavorable; and Nixon at 30 per cent favorable, 67 per cent unfavorable.

Bradley defeated Yorty by a margin of 56.33 per cent of the votes cast May 29 to 43.66 per cent. A city councilman and former police lieutenant, Bradley lost his first bid to unseat Yorty.

In making public the poll results, a Cranston assistant said, "We are pleased. We don't mind being second to Bradley."

Cranston, according to the poll, could easily defeat any Republican challenger. He has no major opposition in the Democratic primary June 4.

To the question, if the U.S. Senate election were held today who would be your choice, those queried picked Cranston by 51 to 14 per cent over state Sen. H.L. Richardson of Arcadia and by 54 to 9 per cent over Earl Brian, former state health and welfare secretary, who announced his candidacy Monday.

Richardson and Brian are the two major announced Republican candidates for the U.S. Senate. The poll also showed Cranston defeated such hypothetical challengers as Reagan, 53 to 35 per cent, former Lt. Gov. Robert H. Finch 51 to 27 per cent; Atty. Gen. Evelle J. Younger, 49 to 25 per cent; Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, 52 to 23 per cent; and state Controller Houston I. Flournoy, 53 to 21 per cent.

The poll also asked Californians to give a performance rating on Cranston, Reagan, Tunney, and Nixon on all excellent-to-poor scale.

Twelve per cent found Reagan doing an excellent job; 32 per cent good; 33 per cent fair; and 24 per cent poor. Cranston received excellent marks from 9 per cent; good from 40 per cent; fair from 32 per cent; and poor from 9 per cent.

Eight per cent said Tunney was doing an excellent job; 37 per cent good; 38 per cent fair; and 17 per cent poor. Nixon received an excellent rating from 4 per cent; good from 22 per cent fair from 30 per cent; and poor from 44 per cent.

Harmonious Round Between Candidate Hopefuls In Novato

Novato city council candidates tangled with the question of attracting business and light industry to the city at yesterday's luncheon meeting of the Soroptimist Club of Novato.

The city's role in recent years was attacked by David E. Milano, who said delays discourage prospective industry and Edward A. Brooks Jr., who said Novato has been bypassed by Petaluma in attracting industry.

Councilman F. Wayne Sartain, seeking reelection, said the city can attract industry by setting aside logical sites such as the Hanna Ranch, east of Highway 101, and Planning Commissioner Gail M. Wilhelm said retail business can be boosted by bolstering the East Grant Avenue area.

Sartain said he didn't believe the city would have a good retail area until "we get a cohesive downtown."

Mrs. Wilhelm said because of "what's happening in Southern Marin," the water moratorium, there will be more development pressure on Novato.

CRASH CAUSES SERIOUS INJURIES

Joseph M. Speck, 35, of San Rafael slumps behind the wheel of his car following a one-car accident this morning on Highway 101 at the Greenbrae offramp. Speck was reported in serious condition at Marin General Hospital with a broken arm, chest injuries and possible head injuries. The California Highway Patrol said Speck's northbound auto drifted off the road about 2:30 a.m. and collided with a guard rail on the ramp.

and in the realm of unreasonableness," said FBI special agent John Kelly. "But they are basically a family decision. They are taking them under advisement now to see what they're going to do."

A family spokesman said shortly after the demand was made that Hearst would "do everything in his power" to meet it in order to save the life of his daughter who was kidnaped from her Berkeley apartment nine days ago.

Kelly said the FBI still had no physical evidence from the abduction site. He said the FBI has received a number of telephone calls since composite drawings of three suspects were circulated last week, and is checking out about two dozen persons who fit the descriptions.

Kelly said the Hearst family has determined that a tape recording of Miss Hearst's voice which was included with the latest demand was really her.

"The family is definite that it was her voice and that she sounded tired," Kelly said. "They sometimes wonder, however, if it was her real statement or not. Apparently some of the things don't sound like her. But it is her voice— there is no question about that."

State agencies which could be expected to be involved in any massive food distribution said they had not yet been contacted by the Hearst family. Spokesmen for Gov. Ronald Reagan and the California Health and Welfare Agency both said they had not been contacted and were taking no action yet.

Solzhenitsyn Ousted By Russian Leaders

don't want to say too much. I know you will understand. Please forgive me."

A spokesman for the West German Lufthansa airline said its officials saw Solzhenitsyn debark from an Aeroflot plane at Frankfurt airport and enter a black Mercedes car bearing the license number BD 7-27. The BD 7 series of licenses belongs to the West German Foreign Ministry.

The Lufthansa spokesman said the Aeroflot airliner landed at 4:13 p.m. (11;13 a.m. EDT). He said the plane stopped at its unloading area and about 40 passengers debarked.

"Last off the plane was Mr.Solzhenitsyn, escorted by Aeroflot Security men," the spokesman said.

"Mr. Solzhenitsyn got directly into the black Mercedes car which left the airport by a back exit."

Airport security men kept a milling cluster of cameramen and photographers 1,500 feet away from the plane and the Mercedes car, which was escorted by two or three police cars.

When Solzhenitsyn, 55, was arrested yesterday, he left behind a letter which said: "Kill me quickly because I write the truth about Russian history."

Marin a law enforcement climate free from organized crime or corruption," Bales continued.

He concluded, "This challenge is being met."

Bales was graduated from the University of California at Berkeley in 1946 and Boalt Hall law school in 1949. He first went into private practice iwth the late Harold J. Haley and Leonard A. Thomas in San Rafael.

During World War II Bales served as a line officer in the Navy in the Pacific theater, participating in the Iwo Jima and Okinawa campaigns.

Bales is an ordained elder of the First Presbyterian Church in San Rafael and is a past president of the Marin County Jaycees, San Rafael Exchange Club, Marin County Centralized Police Services Council and the Marin County Peace Officers Association.

MILK

most Bay Area counties is 66 cents per half gallon which will jump to 67 cents Feb. 17 under an increase granted Monday.

A half-gallon of milk in Marin and Sonoma now costs 65 cents and the one-cent hike has not yet been granted in these two counties.

The one-cent price rise will go only to distributors, however, according to Rossi and will bring no relief to local dairymen.

The biggest problem faced by Marin and Sonoma dairies — and their counterparts across the state — is rising prices for feed and equipment.

Last year, for example, hay sold for from $40 to $44 a ton, Rossi said, adding that it now costs about $80 a ton. And grains which went for $78 to $85 a ton in 1973 are currently selling for $125 to $130.

Meanwhile, the price which dairy farmers can get for their milk has risen by only 15 to 20 per cent, Brittsan said.

"Some of our members are saying they want to sell out and a number already are selling the dairy end of their business," said Rossi. "They have found they can do better raising beef cattle with a lot less work."

Neither Rossi nor Brittsan are sure what will happen if the price hike asked by the dairymen is not granted by the state. "It's hard to predict," the Marin farm adviser said. "A guy's not going to get out (of the business) if he's got a $500,000 investment. Most people are hoping things will get better and aren't going to bail out in the short run."

Brittsan said, however, that continual price-cost squeezes on the dairy industry are going to result in "a gradual decline in the number of dairies."

Rossi concurred, saying that consumers might do well to accept the three or four cent price hike without too much complaining. "If dairies keep going out of business, there is going to be less and less milk," he said. "And, if that happens, the price will go up even more than we're asking."

DEMOS

partisan primary elections. By renting space in Burton's Marin headquarters, they argued, the committee could appear to violate this law.

The narrow majority countered that the practice was common in past elections, and that there was no time to lose in gearing up a needed registration drive to be run from the office.

Robert Lee Grant of Tiburon, who repeatedly denounced the arrangement, saying "it stinks," asked rhetorically, "How can the majority of the central committee vote to do something illegal?" He got no answer.

Charges of conflict of interest also flew across the table at Wiltshire Towers in San Rafael, apparently a reference to the fact two members of the committee are employed by the landlord for the Burton headquarters, Gordon W. Pusser, and that the wives of two other members are the Marin County campaign coordinators for the Burton campaign.

Mertle, however, ruled against the opponents, remarking, "I don't see any conflict of interest."

Janeanne Doar of Novato, one of the displeased minority, cautioned that even if the action violated only the spirit of the law, it should not be taken.

The treasurer of the committee, Deputy Marin County Counsel George J. Silvestri Jr., argued the party office should not be in any candidate's headquarters. But if it really made no difference to the majority, he suggested, it could go in his headquarters for $45 a month. The space in Burton's Larkspur headquarters at 1011 Magnolia Avenue will cost $50 a month.

Silvestri, candidate for the Democratic nomination in the Ninth Assembly District, said he would make space available for the party at his San Rafael headquarters at 1011 Lincoln Avenue. It would have "a separate entrance but a common restroom," he promised.

Using Burton's headquarters was tantamount to "throwing our integrity to the wind," Silvestri declared.

Other objections included one raised by Grant that taking space in Burton's headquarters also implied committee endorsement of Pusser, who is running for his party's nomination in the Second Senatorial District.

Herbert Hawkins of San Anselmo, speaking for the majority, insisted it was "politically unrealistic" to look for special office space for the committee since "we're already bankrupt." He noted the committee's treasury had about $300, but it already is pledged for expenses totaling over $800.

Balloting on Mertle's proposed arrangement with Burton's headquarters was counted three times, once each by voice, a show of hands and by a roll call vote, before it was settled. Each came out the same, 9-7, with six members absent.

The committee also: voted to change its name to the Democratic Central Committee of Marin; appoint a committee to screen Democratic candidates for appointment to county commissions and boards, and received the resignation of Jane Levinsohn of San Rafael. She said she was going to work for the reelection of Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael.

Washington Trip Made By Reinecke

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Republican Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, a candidate for govermor, has slipped off to Washington, where federal investigators are looking into his role in the ITT antitrust affair.

Press Secretary Earl Parker said it was Reinecke's wish that the destination, duration and purpose remain confidential.

"He is on personal business. That's the man's right to leave the state on private business and not tell anybody about it if he doesn't want to," Parker said.

A check of Washington hotels found Reinecke registered at the DuPont Plaza, but repeated efforts to contact him were unsuccessful and messages went unanswered.

With Gov. Ronald Reagan away on a fund-raising trip, Reinecke was acting governor when he left for Washington Monday afternoon without public notice.

In an interview earlier that day, Reinecke complained that the protracted investigation "caused some uncertainties and some harm already" to his campaign. "We're on the brink of very serious troubles," he added.

At issue is a federal probe of Reinecke's role in an offer by International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. to help finance the 1972 Republican National Convention, then slated for San Diego.

One GOP source in Sacramento said it was his understanding that special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski, who is handling the ITT investigation, had called principals in the case to Washington to testify before a grand jury.

Varying statements by Reinecke about a key date in the controversy have raised the specter of possible indictment for perjury, although the lieutenant governor has steadfastly maintained he was free of wrongdoing.

The central question, as far as what is publicly known, is when Reinecke told then Attorney General John Mitchell of the ITT offer to help underwrite the Republican convention expenses up to $400,000.

Mitchell has testified he knew nothing of the offer until after a July 31, 1971, Justice Department settlement of an antitrust suit against the conglomerate on terms favorable to the company.

Reinecke first said he told Mitchell before the settlement, in May, 1971. Later, he said it actually occurred after the settlement in September, 1971. Most recently, he said he checked his records and the date was in June, 1971, again prior to the settlement.

Former POW In The Race For Congress

SANTA ANA (UPI) — A former Naval air officer imprisoned six years in North Vietnam announced yesterday on the first anniversary of his liberation that he would run for the Republican nomination to Congress.

Former Navy Lt. David G. Rehmann, of Garden Grove, was a radar officer when his crew's plane was shot down over North Vietnam on Dec. 2, 1966. He was among the first military POWs given his freedom and sent home.

Rehmann, 31, said he was seeking the 34th District seat held by Democrat Richard T. Hanna, who announced the same day that he would not seek reelection.

Federal Rule On Auto-Oriented Projects Delayed Six Months

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — New federal regulations requiring a permit for large projects which increase use of automobiles will be effective six months later than previously scheduled, a top official reported yesterday.

John R. Quarles Jr., deputy administrator of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, said the regulations will be issued by the end of this week, but will not be effective until next Jan. 1. The agency originally had said they would be imposed by July 1.

Quarles told newsmen the postponement will make the new regulations coincide with the effective date of a separate EPA rule requiring a permit for all new parking facilities with 250 or more spaces. The parking rule was supposed to be effective this past Jan. 1, but was delayed as part of the agency's weakening of a host of regulations that aroused widespread public criticism.

The storm in Congress was so great that the agency permanently canceled its proposal to tax parking spaces up to $450 a year. Quarles stressed that while the stiff surcharges were dropped, the other regulations still will be imposed and enforced.

The regulations to be announced this week will require a construction permit from the EPA for any "indirect source" of pollution from increased use of cars. If they follow an earlier draft, the regulations will apply to highways and roads, parking lots and garages, shopping centers, recreation centers, sports stadiums, commercial airports and all large commercial or industrial projects.

Quarles, meeting with a half-dozen newsmen at the agency's regional headquarters, said it was too early to tell if the energy crisis will cut car use enough to avoid the need for other controls to replace the parking surcharges. He said other controls have not been devised yet.

Five Seeking Corte Madera Seats

By BILL ROBERTS

Five candidates in the special December election in Corte Madera are seeking three city council seats in municipal elections March 5.

Jana G. Haehl, Albert A. Kostelic and Joel A. Shawn, winners in December to complete the terms of three councilmen recalled in September, are seeking reelection.

Larry P. Weingarth and John C. Reed, who finished fourth and ninth respectively in the special election, are also seeking council seats.

Mrs. Haehl, Kostelic, Shawn and Weingarth all agreed that their platforms are virtually unchanged since the December election. Reed is in Hawaii and was unavailable for comment.

Mrs. Haehl, 35, remains opposed to a regional shopping center as proposed by Ernest W. Hahn for 45 acres east of Highway 101. She said she is willing to consider any compromise proposal which would cover only the 25 acres of land already filled at the site.

She supports upgrading the existing Corte Madera Shopping Center but opposes present plans which call for doubling the size.

"I support it until they start to need extensive variances beyond what our zoning ordinances allow," she said. (Present plans call for multi-deck parking not allowed under town zoning.)

She supports regional discussion of growth control as long as Corte Madera is not forced to relinquish local power over planning and said adoption of the general plan is the town's top priority.

She favors holding "study sessions" with developers before they bring final plans to the council for approval.

Kostelic, a 43-year-old manager of public and private bonds in San Francisco, lives at 120 Lakeside Drive with his wife, Jeanne, and their two sons.

He supports the proposed regional center if a fill permit is issued by the Army Corps of Engineers, the town is given 32 acres in open space, access roads are adequate and redevelopment expenditures are under $1 million. He said he would like more information on other nearby development plans such as the Golden Gate Bridge District's ferry terminal before giving full support to the center.

Kostelic said he favors regional growth control discussions but feels the town first should establish its own priorities for development. He said establishing the town's priorities is the most important issue.

Kostelic said present plans to expand the existing center fail to upgrade the center in a way he would support. He said traffic is an example of a problem not fully considered by expansion plans.

He said the town should set its priorities before holding any talks with individual developers.

Shawn opposes Hahn's shopping center plan "with all the surrounding problems that it is creating, the major problem being one of traffic on the interchange."

He favors regional growth control discussions as long as such discussions are not binding on Corte Madera's planning.

The 38-year-old Shawn said study sessions with developers should be considered as each developer makes a request and gave present plans to expand the existing shopping center as a case in which a study session would be helpful.

"The present expansion proposal goes a little too far," he said.

Shawn said that determining the town's capacity for growth and how growth will take place is the major issue before the town.

He is a partner with a law firm in San Francisco and lives at 219 Baltimore Avenue with his wife, Carol, and their four children.

The 33-year-old Weingarth is opposed to the proposed Hahn center because "the physical, social and environmental impact to the town far outweighs any reasonable return that might accrue to the town from a financial standpoint."

He supports growth control discussions as long as they are not binding on the town and favors study sessions with developers as long as they, too, are not binding.

Weingarth favors upgrading the existing shopping center and supports the portion of present expansion plans which would demolish the existing Cala Foods store. But he acknowledged problems with the expansion proposal, including multi-deck parking.

The town's most important issue is adopting a general plan which reflects citizens wishes and preserves the "small town" character of Corte Madera, according to Weingarth.

Reed, a 21-year-old illustrator of books, lives at 10 Golden Hind Passage.

"I believe I could never support the proposed shopping center as a councilman," he said before the election in December.

Concerning growth control he said, "Yes, control growth. Grow after we perfect what we already grew. Grow some vegetables or some answers to old questions."

Public Interest Groups Asking State Office Of Energy Policy

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Fifteen public interest groups, led by the Planning and Conservation League, yesterday called on state government to create a California office of energy policy.

The energy shoratege, the groups said, is "a very real, long-range problem which demands a reordering of our life priorities and life style."

They also said in an "energy policy statement" to Gov. Ronald Reagan, Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti and Senate President Pro tem James R. Mills that conservation goals must be met "without sacrificing environmental standards and without creating a loss of jobs."

In addition to the state energy plicy office, the recommendations included:

An independent state data bank and inventory of all energy resources.

Drastic new pricing policies to penalize large energy consumers.

A ban on outdoor illuminated night advertising.

A major government-sponsored research program into solar energy.

In addition to the Planning and Conservation League, the other groups were American Association of University Women; California Roadside Council; California Tomorrow; California Trout; Ecology Task Force of the Southern California Council of Churches; Friends of the Earth; and League of Conservation Voters of California.

Also, Sierra Club; United Auto Workers; University of California Student Lobby; Western National Audubon Society; Zero Population Growth, California chapter.

Petaluma Dredge Permit Is Asked

The Bahia Homeowner's Association has applied to the Army Corps of Engineers for a permit to dredge approximately 86,000 cubic yards of material from the Bahia channel along the Petaluma River in Novato.

The request also asks that the dredging water, estimated at four million gallons per day, be allowed to evaporate from an 89-acre evaporation area adjacent to the dredging.

Any objections must be made to the Corps. by March 11.

Credibility Gap On New Speed Admitted

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Highway Patrol Commissioner Walter Pudinski says he will not request the hiring of additional patrolmen to crack down on speeders although growing numbers of motorists are exceeding the 55 mile-an-hour speed limit.

"We're losing our creditibility with the public," Pudinski yesterday told the Senate Finance Committee, which is reviewing Gov. Ronald Reagan's proposed $9.8 billion budget.

But Pudinski said he is not asking the Legislature for extra patrolmen at this time because "it's too early" to determine the long-term reaction of the public to the new speed limit.

The commissioner has ordered his men to stop all motorists who exceed the limit by even one mile per hour. He also has urged prosecutors to step up legal action against speeders.

But Pudinski acknowledged that the patrol's efforts have not been able to reduce speeding violations, which he said has resulted in a loss of credibility in the patrol's effectiveness.

The best the CHP can hope for during any eight-hour span currently is for 1,000 patrolmen to be on duty—or about one for every 1,000 miles.

Threat By Bay Agency Over Dues

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Bay Area Sewage Services Agency has threatened Sonoma County with a lawsuit for refusing to pay agency dues.

Sonoma supervisors were informed by letter Monday that their refusal to pay the county's full $31,000 allotment to the regional agency could result in a court battle.

The supervisors have refused to pay the first half of the dues because they maintain that most of the county's sewage and watershed does not flow into San Francisco Bay. They say Sonoma should pay less because its sewage has little effect on other Bay Area counties.

A response to the agency's threat of a suit will be considered by the supervisors next week.

GOP Hopefuls For Assembly Will Be Guests

Candidates for the Republican nomination for the Ninth Assembly District seat are scheduled to speak at a public luncheon of the Novato Republican Women's Club Tuesday at the Alvarado Inn, Ignacio.

Invited candidates are A. Alan Hill of San Rafael, Gerald J. Hood of Mill Valley, Susan A. Delaplane of Tiburon and Albert J. Schloegel of Rohnert Park.

Reservations must be made with Madeline B. McGinnis at 5 Esquire Court, Novato, by Friday. The club will have its business meeting at 11 a.m. and luncheon afterward.

Saloon Owner Freeberg Dies

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — George W. Freeberg, owner of the saloon where the Irish coffee drink was introduced to America, died yesterday of cancer. He was 56.

It was 21 years ago at the Buena Vista Cafe near the bay terminal of the Hyde Street cable car line that travel columnist Stanton Delaplane showed the drink to Freeberg and his partner, John L. Koeppler.

As Delaplane had been served the drink at Shannon Airport in Ireland, it consisted of Irish whisky, coffee and cream, served in a glass.

Koeppler, who died four years ago, changed the recipe by whipping the cream so that it would float.

Two Novato Ag Areas Approved

Novato's first agricultural preserves were created last night by the Novato City Council by unanimous vote.

The preserves had been recommended by the Novato Planning Commission and requested by the property owners to keep down the property taxes on their land.

Mary Richardson was granted one for her 487 acres south of Deer Island and on both sides of Highway 37. It has been used for hay production.

H. M. Rowland asked for one for a portion of the original Pacheco ranch house and grounds on Highway 101 opposite Hamilton Air Force Base. There are approximately 71 acres left in the ranch, with 62 acres in pasture, 5.5 acres in vineyard and orchard and two acres on which are two houses.

The council told the Rowlands it was filling a promise made to them when the ranch was annexed, that the city would create an agricultural preserve status and put their ranch on it.

The Novato City Council Also:

INDUSTRIAL — Rejected a planning commission recommendation to change approximately five acres from light industrial to industrial park, which is more restrictive. The site on Olive Avenue at the eastern city limits is used by Fernando Clementino for a corporation yard for his construction business. The vote was 4-1, with Councilman David Price Jones against.

ZONING — Rezoned three acres at 1833 Center Road from limited agricultural to single-family residential for Robert Hune; made the same rezoning for two acres on Marion Avenue for Robert Jacobsen and on 65 acres off Highway 101 at Rowland Boulevard from limited agriculture to a more restrictive agricultural zone for Richard Hanna.

WALKWAY — Refused to abandon the right-of-way easement for a walkway connecting Apollo Court and Going Way which is used by school children. Some neighbors want the easement abandoned, alleging vandalism by the children, but the children's parents want it kept open. The council asked police to patrol it more and the public works department to erect barriers so that horses and motorbikes cannot use it.

CENTER ROAD — Received a report that the construction of Center Road between Lu Sutton School and Wilson Avenue cost $201,467 and accepted the project as completed, along with the list of assessments against the property for the street improvement.

CODES — Adopted the new state and building and plumbing codes.

HEALTH AND CARE — Referred to the city attorney a proposed ordinance defining and regulating health and care facilities in the city.

REPORTS — Adopted a resolution amending the ordinance setting up environmental impact report procedures as changed recently by the resources agency.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to 7:30 p.m. next Tuesday at the Novato Community House to meet with the North Marin County Water District board to discuss future growth of the area. The council will also consider endorsement of the Warm Springs Dam.

Britain's Miners Halt Inspections

LONDON (UPI) — Striking mineworkers, ignoring management warnings that one-third of Britain's coal pits soon may be destroyed by flooding or fire, today barred all safety inspectors from the mines.

The National Coal Board said that refusing safety inspectors entry to mines has left the pits' future "hanging by a slender thread."

Pickets also blockaded coal transport from docks and fuel dumps into power stations and steel plants on the fourth day of the nationwide strike.

The nation's 269,000 mineworkers began an indefinite strike at midnight Saturday. They demanded a 30-35 per cent pay increase. The governmentrun National Coal Board offered 16.5 per cent.

Present basic weekly pay miners are $84.61 a week for top grade coal face workers, $65.06 for lowest grade underground workers, $61.31 for top grade surface workers and $58.16 for lowest grade surface workers.

Two Endorsed

The Marin Highlands Homeowners Association board has endorsed Councilman F. Wayne Sartain and Planning Commission chairman Gail M. Wilhelm for election to the Novato City Council March 5, president Marvin Bennett reported yesterday.

Nixon Joins Alice's 90th Birthday Tea

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Alice Roosevelt Longworth entertained nearly 200 Washington notables including President Nixon and his family at a late afternoon tea party on her 90th birthday yesterday. She said it reminded her of her wedding day at the White House 68 years ago.

Wearing a long black gown with leopard design —unlike her famous "Alice blue" wedding gown immortalized in song —with a gold frog on a chain around her neck, the daughter of President Theodore Roosevelt had her guests in at her fading Dupont Circle mansion at her ritual 5 o'clock tea time.

Mrs. Longworth said it was "like my wedding day more than anything else." She remembered looking out a White House window in 1906 when she married Nicholas Longworth, a congressman from Cincinnati, and thinking she would not be ready when her guests arrived.

The President, accompanied by his wife, Pat, and Julie and David Eisenhower, were greeted at the front steps by Mrs. Longworth. They brought her a Victorian music box and a can of caviar.

Mrs. Longworth's tart tongue has made her some enemies as well as high level friends but one guest remarked afterwards: "All the enmities fell away. Everyone was very nice. There were lots of presents piled on the piano."

Novato Will Not Get New Manager Quickly

Novato will not have a new city manager until the middle of March or the first part of April.

Mayor Fred F. Ruegg said so last night in reply to a letter from Thomas Stahlbaum, president of the Novato Citizens for Change.

In the letter, Stahlbaum called City Mgr. Charles A. Brown a figurehead and asked for a firm date for his leaving city employment. Several weeks ago Brown announced he was quitting after the first of the year. Among the reasons given was that he did not wish to be an issue in the coming election.

Ruegg said the city had hired Arthur D. Little Co. for $6,000 to screen applicants for city manager. He said it would take about 40 days to get the applications and another 10 to 15 days to select the top group.

Ruegg said it is in the city's best interest to keep Brown until the new man is on the job.

Ruegg also defended Brown's assistant, Rodney W. Brown as being capable of handling the job. Stahlbaum had suggested that if the council did not have confidence in the assistant, that it should hire another one.

"It looks like Brown will be an issue in the campaign after all," Ruegg said.

Court Delays On Picasso Heirs

GRASSE, France (UPI) — A court decided yesterday to delay for a month a ruling on a plea by two illegitimate children of the late painter Pablo Picasso that they be considered his legal heirs.

Claude Picasso, 27, and Paloma Ruiz Picasso, 25, have been allowed to bear the name of their father but a lower court and an appeals court both have rejected their plea to share in the artist's inheritance.

KIDNAPERS' DEMANDS — Free food for the poor, demanded by the Symbionese Liberation Army as a ransom demand for kidnaped Patricia Hearst, could cost in excess of $300 million. The SLA, whose symbol is a seven-headed snake representing its revolutionary goals, said publisher Randolph A. Hearst, the girl's father, should distribute the free food through points in San Francisco, Oakland, Richmond, East Palo Alto, Delano, Santa Rosa and Los Angeles.

(UPI Telephoto)

SLA Preaches Love, Practices Violence

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — The Symbionese Liberation Army is a newcomer to the underground revolutionary movement in the United States.

It preaches a goal of creating a "new world system" based on love. But, so far, violence has been its trademark.

The SLA has claimed responsibility for the Nov. 9 assassination of popular Oakland, Calif., School Superintendent Marcus A. Foster and for the Feb. 4 kidnaping of publishing heiress Patricia Hearst.

The SLA has sent four letters to the news media. All were long dissertations on its philosophy which is, to summarize, war against fascism. The last communique, received yesterday, said its goal was a "new world system" based on love.

Police intelligence sources feel the SLA is an army in name only. About all investigators can learn is that it has, at the most, 25 members.

Checks of leftwing leaders have turned up nothing about the group. They say they have never heard of the SLA and, in fact, deplore its terrorist tactics.

There are three persons linked by law enforcement agancies to the SLA. They are Nancy Ling Perry, 26, a white woman wanted for allegedly burning an SLA home; Joseph Remiro, 27, a Vietnam veteran who had been active in the antiwar movement, and Russell Little, 24.

Remiro and Little were arrested in nearby Concord after a shootout with police. In their van police found SLA literature. They were later charged with the Foster killing.

Foster, according to one SLA communique, was killed because he supported a move to place policemen on patrol in high schools and keep a computerized record of troublemakers.

Miss Hearst, according to another letter, was kidnaped because she was the daughter of Randolph A. Hearst, a "corporate enemy of the people."

The SLA says race is no barrier to membership.

The group's letters use military-style language and show the existence of cadres with specific fields of operation. And in a taped-message received by the Hearst family one man identified himself as a "general field marshal."

The manifesto accompanying the tape said: "We are of many colors, but yet of one mind, for we all in history's time on this earth have become part of each other in suffering and in mind."

Its literature discusses in detail the various units to be included in an SLA federation, emphasizing the "war council" which carries oute its activities against the "fascist" United States.

DID A NOVEL SPAWN THE SYMBIONESE?

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Symbionese Liberation Army may have borrowed its name from a 1969 novel about an uprising in Chicago's black ghetto.

The novel, "The Spook Who Sat by the Door" by Sam Greenlee, concerns a small armed commando unit called the Cobras. The symbol of the SLA is a seven-headed Cobra.

The book mentions the term "symbiology," which is derived from "symbiosis," a biological or psychological term for separate organisms living together comfortably.

The name is believed to drive from the SLA's asserted goal of uniting all downtrodden minorities.

Homeowners Elect Hellman

Stanley Hellman has been elected chairman of the East San Rafael Council, an association of San Pedro Peninsula homeowners.

Other officers are William Simmons, vice chairman, and Mary Carpou, secretary.

Safeway Awaiting Word On Distribution Of Food

OAKLAND (UPI) — Safeway Stores, Inc., is awaiting governmental action on Symbionese Liberation Army demands that its markets become distribution centers for free food to the poor.

The SLA, which kidnaped Patricia Hearst, demanded the food for California's needy and suggested that Safeway and Mayfair Markets be the distribution points.

Mayfair had no immediate comment, but Safeway issued this statement:

"We are aware of the sensitivity of the situation and we are in sympathy with the Hearst family. The actions of the Symbionese Liberation Army are under the jurisdiction of city, state and federal authorities.

"They will be determining what action they will recommend in this matter."

BART Control Testing Slated

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Bay Area Rapid Transit District's engineering committee was told yesterday that by March 9 testing may start on improvements to the system's train detection system.

General manager B. R. Stokes said that if the improvements pass tests, BART may be able to start service next September in a transbay tube connection San Francisco and Oakland.

The improvements call for the use of "minicomputers" at each station to prevent BART's automatically controlled trains from colliding.

Out of Business

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — At least 500 of the state's 6,000 retail gasoline filling stations went out of business in the 12-month period ending November 1973, according to a state retailers association official.

Poor's Reactions Vary On Free Food Demand

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A 36-year-old mother of three said she'd accept $70 worth of free food "only if Patricia Hearst is released first," and a single man of 22 said the demands of the kidnapers of the newspaper heiress only made him "hate counterrevolutionary movements."

Many food stamp and welfare recipients acted with surprise yesterday when informed that they were apparently the reason for the kidnaping of Miss Hearst, 19, by the Symbionese Liberation Army.

"I think it's crazy," said Becky Ziegler, 19. "I could dig the free food but I wouldn't want the food on someone else's expense."

An elderly woman said she wouldn't accept the food "under any circumstances," and a law student, Bob Bates, 29, said that legally any person who accepts the $70 in merchandise "becomes a principal in the crime."

Abbie Lakeman, 27, said, "I think that free food is a "right on" concept and I wish all rich people could be kidnaped into sharing their wealth."

An unemployed laborer, Dennis Slake, 33, said he'd accept the food because he needs it.

PROPANE PYROTECHNICS

Flames and smoke poured from a ruptured propane tank car at Oneonta, N.Y., yesterday after it derailed and exploded, injuring at least 58 persons. The blast sent 100-ton freight cars flying through the air and leveled two-foot-thick trees "like matchsticks," according to witnesses. More than half of those injured were released after treatment for minor burns but one victim was reported critical and five serious.

Mill Valley Threatening Alto Sanitary Sewer Suit

The City of Mill Valley is threatening to sue the Alto Sanitary District if the district does not agree to change the formula used to compute how much it pays the city for treatment of its sewage.

District secretary Daniel R. McNeill said the district board last night reviewed a letter from Mill Valley City Mgr. Ronald L. Usher asking for changes in the payment formula.

In his letter, Usher said the formula is an "incredible situation where an inequitable arrangement has continued for several years." He said if he does not hear from the district in 30 days he will take "speedy legal action."

Usher said he wants the revised formula made retroactive to the late 1960s. The district would thus have to repay some fees for several years billed under the old formula.

McNeill said the district board "was astonished by the letter" and agreed to talk to the Marin County Counsel about it.

According to Usher, the Alto district is the only one of four which pump sewage to Mill Valley for treatment that had not agreed to changes in its payment formula several years ago.

Almonte, Homestead Valley and Kay Park sanitary districts have adjusted the formula to pay extra, based on their usage of the system, and also are paying a share for capital improvements in the Mill Valley treatment system, such as a new Camino Alto pumping station.

Meanwhile, said Usher, Alto has paid based on a formula computed solely on its assessed valuation.

Usher said the Alto district board previously has ignored all attempts to negotiate a new formula. "City correspondence is replete with examples of it having been brought to their attention, but with no agreement by them to do anything."

He said the original contract was vague about whether the formula could be readjusted or not.

In 1973-74, Alto was billed $4,912.36 for its sewage treatment. Almonte paid $11,724.77, Homestead paid $14,252.13, and Kay Park paid $2,752.65, Usher said. In addition, Almonte, Homestead and Kay Park have made payments to cover capital improvements.

Usher said the amounts paid by the various districts could not be directly compared because they are based on their size and the amount of sewage they produce.

Top Award Goes To Alice Cooper

LONDON (AP) — Alice Cooper and his band took the award as top international group last night in Britain's Disc magazine music poll.

Readers of the magazine voted another American star, Diana Ross, the top international female vocalist.

Following the Cooper band in the international group rankings were the Osmonds, the Rolling Stones, Slade and Zeppelin, in that order.

David Bowie was named top male singer in both the British and international categories, with Alice Cooper second in the latter.

Chapin Says Jaworski Remarks Grounds For Charge Dismissal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dwight L. Chapin has asked that Watergate charges against him be dropped because special prosecutor Leon Jaworski has vouched publicly for the veracity of the star government witness, John W. Dean III.

In papers filed with U.S. District Court, Chapin's lawyers charged that Jaworski has "lent his immense authority and prestige to Mr. Dean" and has thus seized "a significant advantage which the defendant is powerless to overcome."

They also charged that Jaworski's public statements about Dean—particularly an appearance on nationwide television Feb. 3—constitute a "serious breach" of court, Justice Department and legal profession rules that prohibit prosecutors from commenting on the credibility of prospective witnesses.

The papers were filed late yesterday. They asked that Chapin's indictment be dismissed or "at the very least" that Jaworski be barred from calling Dean as a witness.

"Mr. Jaworski's comments were not made in the heat of (court) battle, but dispassionately and calmly," Chapin's motion said. "They did not come from the staff, but from the special prosecutor himself. They were not inadvertent, but were repeated many times. Most importantly, they were volunteered on national television and radio on a program where the special prosecutor freely elected to appear..."

Chapin, President Nixon's former appointments secretary, is scheduled to go to trial April 1 on four counts of lying to the Watergate grand jury about the activities of political saboteur Donald H. Segretti.

Pretrial arguments are scheduled this Friday, at which Chapin's lawyers are expected to put Dean on the stand to challenge his veracity. Watergate prosecutors have said in court—and Jaworski repeated publicly—that they have "no basis for believing" Dean has lied under oath about Watergate matters.

Mill Valley Council Hopefuls Will Be Questioned On Views

A candidates night for contenders in the Mill Valley City Council race will be today at 8 p.m. in the Middle School library at 425 Sycamore Avenue.

The sessions for the four running for two council seats will be sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Southern Marin, the Mill Valley branch of the American Association of University Women, the Mill Valley Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Mill Valley Outdoor Art Club. Larkspur Councilman Joan Sestak will be moderator.

The evening will open with each candidate having 10 minutes to speak on his position. Each will then answer three out of five questions prepared by the sponsors.

The first of the following questions is mandatory; candidates may choose among the rest:

1. Describe the Mill Valley you want to see 10 years from now; what policies would you promote to implement your ideas?

2. How do you view the role of the city manager; what do you see as the role of the council related to commissions and committees in city government?

3. What methods do you favor to acquire open space in Mill Valley?

4. How would you use and implement the general plan in the future development of Mill Valley?

5. What do you see as recreation needs in Mill Valley and how would you meet those needs?

Schlesinger Realignment Plans Told

DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit News reported today that Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger is proposing a major realignment in the armed forces, a move which could prove "to be the biggest armed forces shake-up since Robert S. McNamara hit the Pentagon."

In a copyrighted story, the News said Schlesinger's plans, which came after seven months' scrutiny of the defense establishment, include major realignment and redistribution of responsibilities and therefore, of forces, money and manpower among the four services.

One of the decisions, the News said, is to include creation of a coastal command, with responsibilities for land-based maritime surveillance, reconnaissance and antisubmarine air operaions, which would be taken from the Navy and reassigned to the Air Force.

News military analyst Col. R.D. Heinl Jr. said other proposals would result in the assignment of Air Force squadrons to Navy aircraft carriers and giving the Army the mission of providing high-readiness peacetime expeditionary forces now handled by the Marine Corps.

The News said one top Pentagon aide said Schlesinger was about "to shake the tree" of the jealously guarded roles and duties of the armed forces.

According to the News, the changes are incorporated in a guidance memo entitled "Force Interdependence," Pentagon shorthand for a concept of complete mixture of all services and all military components.

In addition to those changes, the defense secretary is reported to have under active consideration two further measures aimed at elite groundforce components, Army airborne and Marines.

The news said Schlesinger reportedly has "encouraged" Gen. Creighton Abrams, Army chief of staff, to end the traditional paratroop functions in both the 101st and 82nd Airborne Divisions, except for one brigade to be retained for special contingencies.

Wornum To Meet Improvement Unit

A general discussion on county policies and matters affecting Muir Woods Park is planned, according to an association spokesman.

Agnew Entourage Taking Vacation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A California congressman said today that a dozen or more Secret Service agents had accompanied former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew on a new vacation trip to the West Coast.

"This is an outrageous act," Rep. John Moss, D-Calif., said in a House speech.

Columnist Maxine Cheshire said in the Washington Post that Agnew left yesterday to attend an 80th birthday party for comedian Jack Benny at the Palm Springs estate of Frank Sinatra.

The Secret Service would not comment on Agnew's travel but said it would provide him with protection "for a reasonable period of time."

Moss said Agnew left Washington last night "with a force of 12 to 21 Secret Service agents bound for Los Angeles and then on to Palm Springs for an eight-day vacation and possible writing period."

Agnew, who pleaded no contest to a charge of income tax evasion Oct. 10 and resigned as vice president, is presently writing his first novel, a portion of which will appear in Ladies Home Journal.

"This practice is an affront to every taxpaying American," Moss said.

An aide to Moss said such a trip would cost the taxpayers about $12,000 assuming it was made aboard a commercial airline.

Moss said Comptroller General Elmer Staats told him that protection for Agnew from the time he resigned the vice presidency until Dec. 15 cost $90,000. Staats reported to Moss earlier that President Nixon requested the Secret Service protection continue for Agnew for a time.

Moss said he was told the Secret Service would reveal how many agents accompanied Agnew on the trip only if the California congressman would keep the information secret. Moss said he refused.

Agnew is an old friend of Sinatra's and has visited his Palm Springs home several times. Sinatra has planned the birthday party for Benny this weekend with a number of the comedian's close friends invited. Benny turns 80 tomorrow.

Blacks Accuse Navy Of Racism

NAPLES, Italy (UPI) — Ten black American seamen charged with assaulting white sailors in a race riot aboard the 6th Fleet flagship Little Rock accused the U.S. Navy of racism today and said they were being denied a fair trial.

The seamen blamed the violence that broke out Nov. 8 aboard the guided missile light cruiser on tensions that built up in a month at sea during the Middle East war because the captain allegedly failed to act on their complaints of racism.

The 10 seamen and an 11th black sailor charged in an earlier incident aboard the cruiser said at a news conference in a Naples hotel they considered their impending court-martial illegal because it was convened by Capt. P.K. Cullins, 45, commander of the Little Rock, who was directly involved in the incident.

"It's the clearest case of the convening officer being the accuser that I've come across," civilian attorney Robert S. Rivkin of the Lawyers Military Defense Committee said.

The committee, an affiliate of the American Civil Liberties Union, was founded four years ago in Saigon to provide free civilian defense for U.S. servicemen in cases involving constitutional issues.

Postal Officials Checking Senators' Mail For Bombs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Postal officials have been quietly X-raying mail of senators and some members of the House in recent months for possible explosives, it was learned today.

Since the screening started, congressional postal spokesmen said a "couple of suspicious" packages were turned over to the Capitol police's special bomb squad and were found to be harmless.

The Senate screening started on a full scale, including checking of letters to committees, after a letter bomb explosion at the British embassy here critically injured a woman employe last summer.

House postal officials, acting at the request of the Secret Service, installed an X-ray machine in 1972 after John G. Schmitz, then a Republican congressman from California, became the American Independent Party candidate for President.

A spokesman said only Schmitz' mail was screened at that time, but after the outbreak of the Arab-Israeli war last October, mail to the 16 Jewish members of the House, along with that of the leadership of the House, was processed through the machine.

Plan Consultant Attacks Critics

By NELS JOHNSON

Critics of San Rafael's preliminary general plan have reacted "prematurely and emotionally" to the proposal, according to Warren W. Jones, chief architect of the controversial document.

"I've urged everybody to keep their mouth shut until they read the plan. These are complex matters that require study and not an emotional response," said the 45-year-old Jones.

Blasting the plan broadside, as Mayor C. Paul Bettini, several planning commissioners, and others have done, is "unintelligent and unhelpful," he said.

WARREN W. JONES
Critics premature

Jones is a partner in Duncan and Jones, the Berkeley planning firm hired for $79,100 18 months ago to draft San Rafael's new general plan.

Jones, former assistant planner with the City of Oakland who opened his own firm in 1961, said the San Rafael job has been the toughest he's ever tackled.

"Usually the client is congenial, helpful, together. But in this case, the personalities have changed, the planning commission and council have changed. The rules have changed," he said, adding the city has a volatile political environment.

Jones, who said he is an independent consultant responsible to the city council, blamed city staff for some of the turmoil that has enveloped the plan. He said Planning Director Herbert G. Hotchner has erroneously considered planning consultants to be an extension of the planning department, resulting in communications problems among staff, consultants and the city council.

Despite these hurdles, Jones said his firm — largely with the help of the citizens advisory committee — has prepared an extraordinary preliminary general plan for San Rafael.

"This is the most complex planning I've done," said Jones, who has drafted plans for Pacifica, Gilroy, Brentwood, Escondido and El Cajon, among other cities.

The preliminary plan, unlike past city plans which represent little more than a "manual and a zoning map," is an avant garde proposal that represents a collection of information, concepts and policies that provide a skeleton for future planning, he said.

"Before, everyone was relying on inadequate information and inadequate zoning, and the city was essentially in a passive position of reacting to what others wanted to do, and, on a whole, going along with what others wanted to do," Jones said.

At the heart of the plan, Jones said, is a proposal for slow, deliberate growth through new residential analysis procedures and other techniques.

Also essential, he said, is that San Rafael provide for low and moderate income populations or else "our growth control notion could be thrown out by the courts."

Recommendations aimed at providing a balanced socio-economic population mix in city neighborhoods are, Jones said, "based on a notion that homogeneous communities are not consistent with national and regional public policy."

Jones said he takes a dim view of demands that an economic analysis of the plan be provided by consultants.

"Our contract didn't call for it," he said. "If you start costing one item out, where do you stop? You deal with ideas and policies first, then prices," Jones said.

Jones also dismissed criticism by some that consultants failed to incorporate suggestions of city staff into preliminary plan.

"I don't think they (the city administration) should have thought they had power to tell me what to put in or take out of the preliminary plan," he said. Even the citizens advisory committee was not given the impression "that what they wanted would be reflected," he said.

The citiznes committee, Jones said, often wanted the preliminary plan to include "too much detail. And those who wanted a detailed plan are just out of luck."

The San Rafael Planning Commission will consider the preliminary plan in a public hearing at 7:30 p.m. today in city hall.

Cranston's Forecast On Ouster Vote

FRESNO (UPI) — Sen. Cranston, D-Calif., said yesterday he expects the House Judiciary Committee to vote a bill of impeachment against President Nixon sometime this spring.

Cranston told a breakfast meeting of labor leaders here that he believes the full house is slightly in favor of impeachment at this point.

However, he said he has "no idea what will happen in the Senate" which must then try the President.

Cranston, seeking reelection to a second term in the Senate this year, said the country probably would rather see Nixon resign than go through impeachment.

But he added "Californians who know Richard Nixon best know he's not going to quit."

Turning to the economy, Cranston quipped there was a bright side to Nixon's economic policies. He said it "has allowed everyone to live in a more expensive neighborhood without having to move."

'100-Year Flood' Map Shows Hardest Hit North Bay Areas

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A new map, showing areas in the San Francisco Bay region that may be inundated in a "100-year flood" has been prepared by the U. S. Geological Survey and is available to the public.

In Marin and Southern Sonoma counties, areas in blue on the map indicating they would be under water in a severe flood, include low-lying sections of Sausalito, Muir Beach, Tamalpais Valley, Mill Valley, Corte Madera, San Rafael, Santa Venetia, Hamilton Air Force Base and much of the area along the Petaluma River and San Pablo Bay.

Hydrologists at the Geological Survey's center in Menlo Park explained that a "100-year flood is one that has a probability of being exceeded only once in 100 years, on the average."

The estimate is based on studies of flood plains, river patterns, tides and rainfall conditions.

Since increased development leads to more rain run-off, the estimate will change if more building takes place.

"Most of the flood prone areas," are in the low-lying valleys and along the Bay, "the areas under the greatest pressures for development," according to John Limerinos, senior hydrologist at the center.

"In recent years," Limerinos pointed out, "millions of dollars have been spent to reduce the flood hazard. However, the annual flood damage has not decreased because land development continues to encroach on the flood plains."

A spokesman explained, however, that hydrologists don't expect all the areas shown on the map to be affected by a single flood. Varying conditions along rivers and the bay might cause a flood in one area and not in others.

Copies of the map may be obtained over-the-counter only from the USGS Public Inquiries Office, 504 Custom House, 555 Battery Street, San Francisco.

"A FRIEND OF THE HUMANE SOCIETY"

Staying home on your vacation is a good idea—until the second or third day. That's when you'll wish you were at Tahoe Donner. And you could be.

Whatever the outcome of the fuel and transportation shortages, you and your family still need to "get away from it all" on your vacation. Or even on the weekends. Maybe more than ever. Vacationing within California is sure to pick up as gasoline sales and freeway traffic slow down. But it's no sacrifice, really. California's a great place to visit. And live.

Tahoe Donner: The Viable Alternative.

That's where Tahoe Donner comes in.

Tahoe Donner is a $32 million resort-residential community in the High Sierra, 16 miles from Lake Tahoe off Interstate 80 near Truckee. It's about 200 freeway miles from San Francisco, or the equivalent of one tankful of gas in the average car. It may take you a little longer than it used to, but you'll be somewhere. If you'd rather not drive, take advantage of the ample train and bus services to the area.

Resort Home Living in a Private Club Setting.

Owning a place at Tahoe Donner—a resort home on the golf course, for example, or a condominium at the base of the Ski Bowl—offers you a world of things to do with your leisure time. As a property owner, you and your family can dine in the Northwoods Clubhouse; swim and play tennis as members of the Racquet & Swim Club; ride at the Donner Trail Stables; ski and stay overnight at our own ski complex; play golf on our championship course (the front nine holes are to open this summer); explore and admire our more than 4,000 private acres of the world's most beautiful wilderness.

Model Home Village and Condominiums.

For people who want a home at Tahoe Donner now, we have a comprehensive housing program with many model resort homes and condominiums from which to choose, representing the work of the best licensed professional builders in the area.

Sixty brand new condominiums in the Ski Bowl complex were opened for sale on January 12 at special ski-season prices. These condominiums, offering panoramic views and virtual door-step access to Tahoe Donner's ski slopes, are priced from around $31,000 for one bedroom/one bath units to around $55,000 for three bedroom/two bath units. Or, if you'd prefer, you can bring in a builder of your choice. Homesites range in price from $8,500 to more than $30,000. We have a home-builder's kit to simplify the whole process, and a rental listing and maintenance service are also available through Dart Resorts Services Company, agent.

Dart Industries Inc.

Tahoe Donner is being developed by Dart Resorts, a Division of Dart Industries Inc. which has a billion dollars in assets. Other major Dart projects in California are Bear Valley Springs in the Tehachapi Mountains and Silver Lakes in the Victor Valley.

Now It's Your Turn.

To learn more about how to "get away from it all" (on one tank of gas), or if you'd like to spend the night as our guest, call collect (415) 352-2810. Or mail in the coupon. This offer is made only to persons having interest in the purchase of property at Tahoe Donner and the financial ability to do so, should they so desire.

Select a vacation home or condominium at Tahoe Donner and we'll give you four seasons of good things to do. (We're only a tankful of gas away.)

Come to Life at Tahoe Donner.

Yes, I'd like more information on Tahoe Donner and the Fact Book on its four-season recreational facilities.

A Warning About Light Show Lamps

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Consumer Product Safety Commission today issued a second warning involving an additional 12,148 light show lamps which it said could deliver a fatal electric shock.

The lamps were imported from Taiwan and sold for $1.99 each to consumers through the Spencer Gifts Inc. catalogue, Atlantic City, N. J.

Last week the commission warned the purchasers of 35,000 of the same lamps sold by Greenland Studios of Miami, Fla. to immediately discontinue using them.

The lamps are called "rainbow lamps" or "mini shadowy stand" lamps and were advertised in national magazines as providing "a sensuous light show".

Lamps sold through the Spencer catalogue do not carry a number on the lamp or its package, the commission said, but the model number listed in the catalogue was 10504.

Minor Whiskey Springs Victory

Developer Joseph A. Duffel last night won a minor skirmish in his five-year battle to build apartments on the former site of the old American Distilling Co. in northern Sausalito.

The city council upheld the planning commission's acceptance of an environmental impact report for the project. By a 4-to-1 vote, with Councilman Evert Heynneman dissenting, the council rejected an appeal of the planning commission's decision.

Douglas B. Martin had appealed the approval, saying the impact statement did not give the city sufficient guidance to make a decision on Duffel's Whiskey Springs development.

He charged that the document did not address itself sufficiently to the project's effect on Sausalito schools, the city's character and on future developments in Sausalito.

Whiskey Springs, which was originally proposed as 392 apartments, now would include 94 apartments on six acres and approximately seven acres of commercial area.

Marin said the impact report had said the Sausalito School District (of which he is a trustee) would benefit from taxes derived from the commercial area. He argued that was not true, saying the district would only get more money if it gets more students and complained that Whiskey Springs would not add many children to the district.

Martin also pointed out that Bridgeway (Sausalito's main street which runs past Whiskey Springs) has a limited capacity for auto traffic. He said that the report did not contain enough information to show whether permitting the Duffel development to be built would make it impossible to later approve other projects which also would generate traffic on the already crowded project.

Councilman Sally Stanford objected to Martin's complaints that not many children would live in the apartments. "With that kind of philosophy, you'd never build anything in Sausalito except a home for pregnant women," she quipped.

Martin recommended that Sausalito should conduct a traffic study to determine what the effect of all projects — both current and future —would have on Bridgeway. He said all developers and would-be developers should pay for the traffic review.

(The council last night did not get to a proposal that the city initiate a four-month moratorium on development until such a traffic study is completed)

Jerry Yuddelson, of Environmental Science Associates, hired by the city to prepare the impact report for Whiskey Springs, countered that his report was adequate. "He (Martin) doesn't have a leg to stand on," he said.

Yuddelson pointed out that the report had been available for public inspection for five and a half months. If the school district is worried about the project's effect on the schools, why didn't the district make its concerns known before now, he asked. "The only comments we've had from the school district is about traffic safety for school children," Yuddelson said.

The consultant said he had studied the traffic situation and the character of Sausalito and included both matters in his report. "You'll have a very bad (traffic) situation on Bridgeway during peak traffic hours" if this project and the Deak and Schoonmaker developments are approved," he said.

The council acted to accept the impact report after Planning Director Herb Case said the report was "very well presented and very revealing."

In other action, the council continued until Feb. 25 a public hearing on Duffel's request to have approximately seven acres of the development rezoned from multiple-family residential to commercial. The session will be held in Central School.

Nixon's War Chest Leads '72 Contenders

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Led by President Nixon's $3.6 million, almost all the 1972 contenders for the presidency wound up with money in the bank, according to a study by the Center for Public Financing of Elections.

The study was based on reports filed with the General Accounting Office (GAO) by the candidates' committees. It shows cash in the hands of the committees—not the candidates —at the start of 1974.

A distant second to Nixon's $3.6 million is the $469,442 held by committees for the election of Sen. George S. McGovern, the Democratic presidential nominee.

Other 1972 hopefuls and their surpluses were Gov. George C. Wallace, $103,751; Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., $44,937; Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., $15,752; Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., $5,599, and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, $1,983.

Former Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty and Sen. Mike Gravel's committees filed reports stating there was no money left over.

But no reports were filed by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., Rep. John Ashbrook, R-Ohio; and Rep. Paul N. McCloskey, R-Calif., who all campaigned for the nominations in one or more primaries.

Committees for Massachussetts Gov. Endicott Peabody, who campaigned actively for the Democratic vice presidential nomination, listed a $3,017 surplus; and Sargent Shriver, who finally got the nomination, $1,869.

A spokesman for McGovern said no decision has been made on the disposition of the nearly half-million dollars left over from his campaign. The spokesman said he assumed some would be used for still unpaid obligations and some for lawsuits.

Asked whether McGovern could use the money to help in his South Dakota reelection campaign, the spokesman said McGovern has decided that he will not do so, although it would be legal.

In addition to the presidential aspirants of 1972, some of whom may try again, three potential 1976 candidates have filed reports with the GAO.

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., claimed money on hand totalling $46,981; Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., $365,675. The center said Walter F. Mondale filed a statement after the first of the year and the amount was not available.

One Station Not Impressed

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — A southern Arizona woman came up with a novel method of getting a tankful of gas without waiting in line yesterday At least at one station it didn't work, though.

The attendant told police the woman drove up, flashed some sort of badge and, with an official air, demanded gas. The station employee wasn't about to be fooled and told her to go to the end of the line."

"If I wasn't working undercover," she said in a huff, "I'd place you under arrest."

$1 Billion Call In Jobless Area

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration asked Congress today for a billion-dollar boost over the next 15 months in benefits for the jobless — including those who are out of work because of the energy crisis.

The program, outlined by Labor Secretary Peter J. Brennan at a news conference, would extend current unemployment programs by 13 weeks, to a full year's coverage in many states, and would cover for up to 26 weeks many persons not covered by current programs.

The state law would govern in each case what benefits and time extension a person would get, Brennan said. But, he added, the program would be "triggered" by factors spelled out in the legislation.

He said the suggested legislation is better than the unemployment benefits proposal in the pending energy emergency legislation in that the administration's plan would not be limited to those losing jobs because of energy problems.

Undersecretary Richard F. Schubert said, "This is a far superior proposal in that it meets the needs of all people in an area significantly affected by the energy crisis"

The proposed coverage would be instituted by one of two conditions:

If insured unemployment in a specific area averaged 4.5 per cent or more for 13 weeks, or

If it averaged 4 per cent or more in an area which experienced an increase of 20 per cent or more in insured unemployment since a comparable period between october, 1972 and September 1973.

Ordinance In Conflict Area Touted

ROSEMEAD (AP) — This Los Angeles suburban community has adopted an ordinance which city officials describe as a model measure for interpreting the ambiguities in the state's conflict-of-interest law, enacted last fall.

City Atty. Glenn R. Watson said the measure adopted last night was drawn up by the League of California Cities in conjunction with staff members of various county councils throughout the state.

Watson said the key provision in the local ordinance defines "conflict-of-interest" more precisely than the state measure which refers to it only as an action "which would materially affect an individual's interests."

In the local ordinance, Watson said, "materially affect" is defined as an increase or decrease of an individual's holdings by more than 1 per cent.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

A Camper Has Its Own Laws

"Why can't I park here?" asked Carl Camper. "I've been putting my money in the meter just like everyone else."

"Yeah," the policeman answered, glaring at the giant camper bus. "But your 'car' is as wide as two. No one can get around it in the street."

Most cities restrict the number of hours you can park in the street. But now several counties have passed laws making it illegal for a trailer to park anywhere but a trailer park.

Take Ron Rover as an example.

"State laws are already putting too many parking rules on us campers," said Ron. "The county laws are even more strict. Those laws shouldn't be allowed since the state has already ruled on the same thing."

"The state has made many laws dealing with mobile homes," the court agreed. 'These laws deal with design, construction, operation, and safety requirements. As well as regulating parking on state lands and the use of mobile home parks."

"But the state laws allow local governments to make rules to further regulate mobile homes and parks within their own areas. Local law may regulate such vehicles for the health and police protection of local residents."

In another case, the city wanted to impose a property tax on Dan's mobile home. As well as all the others in the area.

Don challenged and won.

"There's already a tax imposed by the state on all 'vehicles'," argued Don. "Campers and mobile homes pay taxes based on their value. Just like passenger cars and trucks do."

"Don is right," said the court. "The vehicle tax is "in lieu of property tax.' A local government can't tax again."

Home Found For 'Thing' Off Coast

SANTA BARBARA (AP) — Some said it was a space ship from a far-flung planet, and others said it was a Russian spy gizmo.

The Navy refused to claim it, and the Santa Barbara Harbor Department didn't care as long as Sam Babcock took it off the pier.

The two-and-one-half ton, stainless-steel capsule was recovered from the seabottom off Santa Rosa Island Monday by Babcock, who runs Hurricane Charters, a local service for sport divers.

He put the 30-foot, bullet-shaped capsule on an old pier and then passersby spotted it.

"That kicked off the rumors," he said.

Babcock's partner, Bob Guthrie, said the Navy was contacted but "they said it wasn't theirs. But I think it is and when they find out what we've got, maybe they'll want it back. It's probably covered in monel, which is a very expensive alloy."

ENERGY EXPERIMENT

This device, called a vertical axis windmill, is being studied at NASA's Langley Research Center in Hampton, Va., for the conversion of wind power to electricity. The wing-shaped blades rotate in almost any wind to provide the energy requirements of a typical single-family home.

CHA-CHA FOR CHEETAHS

Two cheetahs at Lion Country Safari in Stockbridge, Ga., did an impromptu little dance for visitors yesterday and the conclusion of witnesses was that although cheetahs are the fastest land animals in the world they're sadly lacking in terpsichorean talent. But the cats must like it at Lion Country Safari. Two litters of cheetahs have been born in the last year, a rarity for the animals in captivity.

Early Treatment Of Curved Spine Is Critical To A Cure

Scoliosis (curvature of the spine to the left or right) is common in youngsters and teenagers. It can turn a healthy, peppy young girl of 10 into a deformed cripple within five years. Early treatment is critical and parents should check the child's bare spine periodically and consult a physician if curvature exists. Best results are obtained when an expert opinion is received.

Curvatures usually develop during the early years. The defect is a symptom of more than 50 diseases (mainly of the vertebra). Most are rare, inherited syndromes. In many instances, poor posture plays a role, but weakened or paralyzed back muscles also may be responsible. Spinal curvature occurs when one leg is slightly shorter than the other. Injury is another possible cause.

BOYS ARE more likely to be affected during the early school years, but the situation changes in adolescence when three to five times more girls than boys develop it. In a study involving 11,000 children, almost four per 1,000 girls had scoliosis of unknown origin. When allowed to continue, the defect is deforming and disabling. Curvature of the thoracic spine compresses the lungs and interferes with the circulation through the respiratory tract. A thoracic curve of 75 degrees may shorten life.

Minor curvature may correct itself with additional rest during the day, provided the youngster makes an effort to sit and stand erect. Exercises keep the spine flexible and improve balance of the trunk muscles. These must be done faithfully and over a long period of time.

PROGRESSIVE CURVATION is more serious and problems occur when treatment is delayed. Physiotherapy is of little value when the curvature is definite enough to be unsightly.

Milwaukee is famous for a number of things, but for scoliosis, the Milwaukee brace is tops. It is a device used as a corrective support and, because it is adjustable, it helps the victim to be comfortable while sitting, lying down, standing, or walking. Also used is a plaster cast. Occasionally, surgery is the answer. Special rods involving cables and screws to slowly correct the deformity also are popular.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902. Telephone inquiries will not be answered.

TWO DEAD TEETH

B. C. writes: I've had two dead teeth for many years. I'm 44 and haven't been feeling well so went through a physical that disclosed nothing wrong. Could dead teeth sap a person's energy even though X-rays show no abscess?

REPLY

Addition's Cost Soars $200,000

Inflation has driven the cost estimate for the Rancho Cotate High School addition from $1.2 million to nearly $1.4 million.

Petaluma Schools Supt. Lesly H. Meyer said school board members were told of the increase at their meeting Monday night.

Work is to begin on the school in Rohnert Park during the next three months, with completion set for fall, 1975.

Meyer said plans call for 19 general classrooms, two science laboratories, a mechanical drawing room, wood and metal shops, a physical education room and two classrooms for science projects.

Trustees were told the addition would increase the school's capacity to 1,750 students. Current enrollment at the school is 1,178 and enrollment next fall is projected at 1,300, Meyer said.

The school board also endorsed the library and park improvement bond issues which voters will decide upon in the March 5 election.

Side Profits From Wheat Deal Reported

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep John Melcher, D-Mont., believes an unpublished government report shows U.S. firms apparently did not reap excess profits from the 1972 Russian grain deal, but also shows they made "shocking profits" from related sales.

Melcher said he had obtained a copy of a General Accounting Office (GAO) investigation of the June 1972 sale of an estimated 500 million bushels of wheat to the Soviet Union and it showed the companies "probably did not make excessive margins on the Russian wheat itself."

"But there were unusual profits on non-Russian sales thanks to the Department of Agriculture subsidies to maintain a net cost to export firms of $1.63 on the Russian deal."

Critics have charged some U.S. grain exporters learned the extent of the impending sale in advance and profited hugely from that knowledge by secretly buying up U.S. stocks at reduced prices.

Robin Johnson, a spokesman for one of the five export companies investigated, Cargill Inc. of Minneapolis, said the report supported the companies' argument "that we did not have advance knowledge" of the Russian grain deal.

$907 Million Profit For Ford In 1973

DETROIT (UPI) — Despite a 76 per cent drop in profits after the energy shortage scare began in the final three months of 1973, the Ford Motor Co. rolled up a record $907 million profit for the entire year.

Ford chairman Henry Ford II warned in the company's financial statement yesterday that the sales slump will continue at least through the first half of 1974.

"Sales should recover later in the year, however, following an anticipated improvement in economic conditions and conversion of additional production capacity to small cars, provided there is meaningful relaxation of the oil embargo," Ford said.

The No. 2 automaker reported record sales of $23 billion for 1973, up 14 per cent from sales of $20.2 billion in 1972. Profits for the year were $907 million, a 4.2 per cent increase from $870 million the previous year.

In the fourth quarter, sales were $5.6 billion in both 1973 and 1972. Profits for the final three months of 1973, however, declined 76 per cent to $57 million from $240 million a year earlier.

Ford said the long delay by the government in allowing price increases to cover added costs also hurt profits.

"During most of 1973, higher volume tended to obscure those unrecovered increases," he said. "In the fourth quarter, however, industry volume declined and the effect on earnings was magnified by a pronounced shift to small cars because of the energy shortage."

The Ford financial statement was the final one released by the "big four" automakers." With the exception of American Motors Corp. (AMC), all reported sharp profit slumps in the final three months of 1973 because of the energy shortage.

Altogether, Ford, General Motors, Chrysler and AMC had sales totaling $18.5 per billion in the final three months of 1973, a 5.5 per cent increase over $17.5 billion in the same three months of 1972.

5. The Friday favorite is fish sticks and macaroni with cheese. Plenty of both, piping hot.

7. Sunday brunch, anyone? Scramble some eggs and place them on top of fish sticks. We call it Fish Sticks Benedict. You'll call it delicious.

WHETHER YOU eat it at teatime or after an evening outing, Irish prune bread can be the best snack to serve with a cup of hot tea or coffee. No rising is necessary, and a minimum of kneading, plus use of pitted prunes, makes this a simple bread to make.

Irish Prune Bread Is Nourishing And Also Very Simple To Prepare

Trust the Irish to find a way to bring nutrition into snack-time. They often use a tea or coffee hour to bring forth a home baked fruit filled bread. Since we Americans don't often take time for midday tea, we often have that same snack to finish off a social, or activity-filled evening.

Irish prune bread is a hearty, solid snacking bread that is not difficult to make. It requires no rising and a minimum of kneading. Buttermilk and eggs give it richness, caraway seeds add unique pungent flavor and pitted prunes provide chewy morsels of sun-ripened fruit for texture and flavor. If desired, an extra sweet touch can be added with the confectioner's sugar orange glaze.

Slice Irish prune bread thinly to serve. The recipe yields two loaves. Appetites from a night of bowling or movie watching can sometimes be quite large, especially when the bread is so delicious that "just one more piece" becomes everyone's theme. If there is any sliced bread remaining it makes a welcome change from the usual breakfast toast.

IRISH PRUNE BREAD

- 8 cups all-purpose flour
- ½ cup sugar
- 2 tsp. salt
- 2 tsp. baking powder
- 2 tsp. baking soda
- ¼ cup caraway seeds
- ½ cup butter or margarine
- 3 cups chopped pitted prunes
- 3 cups buttermilk
- 2 eggs

In a large bowl, mix flour, sugar, salt, baking powder, baking soda and caraway seeds. Cut in butter until particles are very fine. Stir in prunes. Add buttermilk and eggs and stir until a soft sticky dough.

Knead dough on a heavily floured surface until a smooth ball. Cut dough into two equal pieces and shape each piece into a round smooth ball. Place balls of dough into two greased eight inch pie pans. Cut a cross in top of bread, one-half inch deep. Brush top with milk. Bake in a preheated 350 degree oven for one hour and 10 minutes. Cool thoroughly before cutting into thin slices.

If desired, bread may be frosted before serving. For each loaf mix 1 cup confectioners' sugar with enough orange juice to make it the consistency of thick cream. Spoon glaze over warm loaf of bread. Double this recipe if you wish to glaze both loaves. Makes two, eight-inch round loaves.

Some Advice On Storing In Freezers

For meats wrapped in freezer wrap and stored at 0 degrees F.or colder:

Beef, six to 12 months; veal, six to nine months; pork, three to six months; ground beef, veal or lamb, three to four months; ground pork, one to three months; variety meats, three to four months.

Luncheon meats, not recommended to freeze; sausage and fresh pork, two months; frankfurters, one month.

Cooked meat, leftover, two to three months. Bacon, one month; smoked ham, two months; corned beef, two weeks.

Frozen combination foods: meat pies, three months; swiss steak, three months; stews, three to four months; prepared dinners, two to six months.

Fresh chicken, six to seven months; cooked chicken, two to three months; fresh turkey, six to seven months; cooked turkey, two to three months.

Be sure to inscribe the date on the food package when you place it in the freezer.

Breakfast Prunes

Prunes are an excellent breakfast fruit and are easy to fix. Just combine equal parts of pitted prunes and water or fruit juice. Cook ten minutes.

PARTY TREATS

He's The Boss In The Kitchen

William E. Fuss of Tiburon has cooked the meals in his house for 12 years, ever since he married his wife, Marie, and found out she couldn't cook.

Now Mrs. Fuss is chairman of a Marin Music Chest fund raising party on Friday and Fuss will cook the buffet supper for the pre-theater party. He is also giving cooking lessons as a benefit for the Pathfinders, another of his wife's organizations.

Marin Music Chest has "taken the house" on the opening night of the Ross Valley Players', "Ready When You Are C.B.," for the party at the Barn, Marin Art and Garden Center, Ross. The pre-show buffet supper for an expected 275 guests will be prepared by William Fuss at 7 p.m.

Fuss doesn't cook for a living. He is in commercial refrigeration manufacturing, but he likes to cook and he calls it his hobby.

He offers two dishes here that he will have at the party along with fresh green salad, homemade corn muffins.

BOURBON BAKED BEANS

- 3 1 lb. cans oven baked beans
- 1 tbl. dry mustard
- ½ cup strong black coffee
- ½ cup bourbon
- Brown sugar to taste

Combine all ingredients except brown sugar. Place in buttered dish. Let stand overnight in refrigerator. Heat oven to 375 degrees and bake, covered for 40 minutes. Add brown sugar and bake uncovered for 40 minutes. If desired fried pineapple may be put on top. Serves 16.

HAM CASSEROLE

- One head Chinese cabbage, chopped
- 1 lb. cooked ham
- ¼ cup butter
- 1½ cups raw long-grained white rice
- ¾ cup chopped onion
- 4 oz. pimiento, chopped
- 2 cloves garlic, chopped
- 1½ cups water
- 1 can chicken broth
- 1 tsp. dried thyme or ½ tsp. ground thyme
- ½ tsp. pepper

Cut ham into one-inch cubes. Heat one-fourth cup butter in large heavy skillet with lid over medium heat until foamy. Stir in one and one-half cups rice. Cook, stirring until rice is golden color. Add pimiento, garlic and onion and cook, stirring, for five minutes. Stir in water and broth, thyme and pepper. Bring to a boil, reduce heat and cook, covered for 15 minutes. Add ham and mix. Cover and cook about 15 minutes after adding chopped cabbage. This amount serves six.

There are Chinese overtones in the ham casserole, because he learned about cooking Chinese style when he lived in Seattle, his home town. He was permitted to work in the kitchen along with the chefs at Ruby Chow's, "the best Chinese restaurant in the Northwest", according to Fuss. Mrs. Chow appreciated his love of Chinese food and gave him the opportunity to learn the technique.

He has special stainless steel woks (Chinese cooking pans) made to his order in San Anselmo set into a decorative service cabinet on wheels.

This arrangement for his stir-and-fry cooking enables him to cook where the action is just off the living room. He uses the large woks for home entertaining and for his celebration of Chinese New Year's. For the ninth year he and Marie Fuss hosted a Chinese dinner this year for the occasion with 36 guests.

Not only does he make all the meals at the Fuss home at 245 Round Hill Road in Tiburon, but he also does the shopping because "Marie doesn't get the right stuff". And he stacks and cleans up after cooking.

He makes dinners for the Pathfinders group at the Marin Art and Garden Center when that organization gives its "couples dinners" four times a year. He was in charge of food preparation for the Art and Garden Center summer festival for the past three years, and assisted with the Marin Symphony cruise last year by making a huge Greek salad.

Mrs. Fuss likes to make elaborate salads and desserts.

Take Advantage Of Grapefruit Buys In Market

Take advantage of good grapefruit buys now, trying the ruby red or white varieties. Grapefruit also makes an excellent dessert.

BAKED GRAPEFRUIT

- 2 large grapefruit
- 8 teaspoons sugar
- ¼ teaspoon cinnamon
- 1½ tablespoons Benedictine or Grenadine
- 1½ tablespoons Grand Marnier or Cointreau

Cut grapefruit in half. With a sharp knife cut around each section to loosen "meat" from membrane. Cut out center core with scissors. Sprinkle each grapefruit half with two teaspoons sugar. Dust lightly with cinnamon. Combine liqueurs and drizzle over halves. Place four to six inches from source of heat and broil under high heat five to eight minutes, until golden brown. Four servings.

Split Pea Soup Makes Ideal Meal-In-A-Bowl

No matter how you cook it, simmered in the time-honored Dutch oven or slow-cooked for hours in a low-heat electric cook-pot, this economical, whole-meal soup made with split peas adds good eating to the week's meal plans.

MEAL-IN-A-BOWL SPLIT PEA SOUP

- 1 pound washed green split peas
- 6 cups cold water or stock
- 2 cups canned tomatoes (26-ounce can)
- 1 12-ounce package frozen chopped spinach (1½ cups cooked or canned)
- 1½ or 2 cups sliced raw carrots
- ¾ cup chopped onion
- 1 fat clove garlic, thin-sliced
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 meaty ham bone

Put all ingredients in Dutch oven or large heavy saucepot. The spinach need not be thawed. Slowly bring to boiling point in uncovered kettle. When boiling, reduce heat to simmer. Cover and let cook four hours preferably, stirring occasionally. May also be cooked in a 300 degrees oven.

If one of the new low-heat, slow-cook 3½-quart electric cook-pots is used, cover and cook on "low" for 12 to 15 hours, following manufacturer's instructions.

Makes 12 cups.

The soup will thicken in the refrigerator or when thawed after freezing. If necessary, add a little water or stock to bottom of kettle before reheating slowly. Watch this or the soup may scorch.

Begin Sprout Garden With Easy Seeds

By DEVON REAY
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

When growing sprouts for salads or other dishes for the first time, select a fast and easy seed, such as mung beans, or a seed so tasty you can eat it raw with no dressing such as black radish.

A few seeds suited to sprouting are wheat, turnip, soy, sesame, safflower, rye, pumpkin, pinto, peanut, pea, parsley, onion, oat, mustard, mung, millet, lima, lettuce, lentil, kale, flax, fenugreek, fava, dill, cress, corn, clover, chia, caraway, beet, barley, alfalfa. Also celery, probably one of the most delicious.

You can use sprouts in salads, stews, sandwich spreads, or enjoy them as is as a snack. Few if any foods provide more nourishment for so low a cost. A three-month supply of assorted seeds is $3.

"Give the seed the proper conditions, and it almost literally explodes, releasing the vital life force within it. A tiny, crisp sprout appears. And as this sprout grows, vitamins are formed in it," according to a researcher who says its nutritional content jumps overnight.

Some persons sprout seeds in a glass jar covered with damp linen or overturned in a sauce dish; others roll the seeds in a damp towel.

ONE OF the best ways to sprout is to use a clean clay plant pot set in a small dish or glass ashtray. This clay pot, 3½ inches or less across the top, can be placed in boiling water for three or four minutes, then allowed to cool before you put in the seeds which have soaked about eight hours in room temperature water.

Seeds expand during sprouting, so you put in less than one-sixth of what the pot holds — about a tablespoon of seeds in a small clay pot.

Before you put in the seeds and rinse them with fresh water, plug the drain hole with damp filter paper, a small cork, or hold your finger over it. The seeds must be rinsed more than four times daily, so if your seeds are tiny, this finger-over-drain gets tricky.

After rinsing, place a small sauce dish or cover over the top of the pot, invert pot and cover, and set in a spot that stays between 70 and 75 degrees. If the drian hole is open, an inverted glass ashtray can be placed over it. But not all the time, sprouts need fresh air.

During the warm months, your sprouts are ready to enjoy within four days. (After three days you start new sprouts.)

When your mung sprouts are between 1½ to 3 inches long, rinse them, drain thoroughly, and keep them covered in the refrigerator. They should be used within a day or so.

A Variation On The Old Stew Theme

Chicken stew made with whole pieces of chicken and an assortment of flavorful vegetables is new to many modern families.

Perhaps a vague recollection of Grandma's stew simmering for hours, discourages young cooks. But today's stews are usually made from fryers and these chickens cook very quickly. Make it extra good by thickening the juices lightly with corn starch. Serve in soup plates.

CHICKEN STEW

- 2 2½ to 3½-pound) fryers, cut up.
- 1 chicken bouillon cube
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1 bay leaf
- ¼ teaspoon thyme leaves
- 5 cups water
- 2 cups celery, cut in 3-inch strips
- 2 cups carrots, cut in 3-inch strips
- 12 small white onions (about ¾ pound)
- ⅓ cup corn starch
- 1 cup water

Place chicken pieces, bouillon cube, salt, bay leaf, thyme and water in a large kettle. Bring to boil, reduce heat and simmer, covered, 30 minutes. Add celery, carrots and onions; simmer, covered, about 10 minutes or until vegetables are tender. Mix corn starch and water; stir into chicken mixture. Bring to boil; stirring constantly, and boil one minute. Makes eight servings.

Meat Dishes Can Be Had By Planning

This dual challenge can be countered with careful planning. Make weekday family dinners the budget and time stretching kind. This need not mean skimping on flavor or food value. At least, not when beef recipes that cook in minutes are at hand.

Beef blade steaks, marinated and refrigerated ahead, broil quickly. Speedy ground beef dishes are legion and many beef liver preparations are fast and easy. These examples of delicious dinners can be created in a hurry.

CHUCK WAGON CHUCK STEAKS

- 1 to 2 beef blade steaks, cut ½ to ¾ inch thick
- 1 medium-sized onion, chopped
- 1 cup catsup
- ⅓ cup vinegar
- 2 tablespoons brown sugar
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1 clove garlic, crushed
- ⅛ teaspoon hot pepper sauce

Combine onion, catsup, vinegar, brown sugar, salt, garlic and hot sauce in saucepan and cook slowly 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Cool. Pour sauce over steaks in utility dish or plastic bag, turning to coat all sides. Marinate in refrigerator four hours or overnight. Pour off and reserve marinade. Place steaks on rack on broiler pan three inches from heat and broil 15 to 25 minutes, depending upon thickness of steak and degree of doneness desired. Turn and brush steaks with marinade occasionally.

JIFFY CHOW MEIN

- 1½ pounds ground beef
- 1 medium onion, sliced
- 1½ cups chopped celery
- 1 cup water
- 1 can (16 ounces) chop suey vegetables, drained
- ¼ cup soy sauce
- ½ teaspoon sugar
- 2 tablespoons water
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch

Brown ground beef in large frying-pan. Pour off drippings. Add onion, celery and one cup water. Cover tightly and simmer 15 minutes. Add chop suey vegetables. Combine soy sauce, sugar, two tablespoons water and cornstarch and add to meat mixture. Continue cooking for five minutes or until sauce is slightly thickened. Serve with Chinese noodles. Makes six servings.

Stuffed Apple Breakfast Treat

A baked stuffed apple makes a popular breakfast or dessert fruit. Fill six cored apples with chopped pitted prunes and place in a baking dish.

Combine 1 cup each apricot whole fruit nectar and sugar. Heat to boiling and pour over apples. Cover and bake about 45 minutes in a moderate oven.

Nursery School Isn't A Baby-Sitting Chore

By JOAN LISETOR

A good nursery school teacher sets the stage for the children, then lets them to their own thing, according to Liesel Neheimer of San Rafael, head teacher for the new nursery school at the Marin Young Women's Christian Association in San Rafael.

Mrs. Neheimer, who has been teaching preschool-age children for more than 20 years, thinks teachers have a tendency to talk too much and listen too little.

"Each child is creative in his own way but needs to have his curiosity stimulated," she said.

It is important for a child to be aware of his social and physical environment, to have the opportunity to develop feelings and to express himself, she said.

"Children need a time to grow with the realization that they are persons and important as such, but they need help to experience the things that are needed for individual growth," she said.

MRS. NEHEIMER said she stresses the creative approach.

"A teacher must be inventive with materials. I tell the children, 'We are going to make puppets,' and I put out paper bags, yarn, macaroni and other materials. I give no instructions. Too many directions make children frustrated. It is more fun for them to do it their own way," she said.

While a small child needs freedom of choice, she said, he also needs direction.

"Children can wander from one activity to another, but they know when it is story time it is important that they listen," she said.

She sets limitations, she said, and the children know they can do anything as long as it doesn't hurt their friends, the furniture or themselves.

To allow the openness a teacher must be structured herself, she said.

"CHILDREN NEED the opportunity to engage in play among themselves," she said. "There are too many ready-made toys with batteries. Let them do their own thing and play out their frustrations."

Nursery school is especially important for children who do not have siblings, so they can learn to share, she said.

"When two children fight over one toy I take the positive approach and tell them, 'We share. While he is playing with it why don't you try the bicycle or the truck.'

"You have to insist and carry through, so that the child knows where he stands," she said.

When a child is naughty it is important he knows he is loved, it is only what he did that you don't like, she said. Don't explain 'why' to a child who is under 3, she said, because he doesn't understand, and above all — don't argue with a small child.

She has found the greatest form of punishment is to remove the child from the group for a short time.

"DON'T TAKE him out of the room," she said, "and don't insult a child in front of others. They have egos, the same as we do."

Mrs. Neiheimer was born and educated in Frankfurt, Germany. She left Germany in 1940 and went to Palestine, where she lived for eight years. Her greatest training in early childhood education came from living in a kibbutz there, she said, although she has a degree in early childhood development and education from the University of Frankfurt and received a teaching credential from Sonoma State College.

Since coming to the United States in 1948 she has lived in 10 states and started nursery schools in Phoenix, Ariz., at Tulane University in New Orleans and locally, at the Marin Jewish Community Center.

In Colorado Springs she worked with a group of emotionally disturbed children and at Tulane started a nursery school, she said, although she is limiting classes to 10 in order to give individual attention.

"All children are born equal and innocent," she said. "Who ruins them but us — parents and teachers?"

Never talk down to a child, she said, noting that is easy for her. At 4 feet, 11 inches, she is about the same size as her students.

LIESEL NEHEIMER holds two "dragons" made by her nursery school students at the Marin Young Women's Christian Association in San Rafael. The San Rafael teacher gives the children the materials but no instructions or directions because she believes it is important for them to do things their own way. Set the stage, then let the child do his own thing, she said.

Joint Childbirth Practices Hailed

By KAREN PETERSON

Prepared childbirth, which involves the mother and father as active participants, both benefits the family as a unit and helps bring the family "back to basics" in a world of future shock, concluded a four-member panel last night at the Marin Young Women's Christian Association.

Speaking at the "Knowledge Is Power" program, "Childbirth — Myths and Methods" were Dr. N. E. Boyce, a Mill Valley obstetrician and gynecologist; Sue Severin, an instructor in the Bradley childbirth method; Jeannie Zitzer, a Lamaze childbirth instructor, and Peggy Saunders, a West Marin midwife.

People come to classes for different reasons, said Mrs. Zitzer, and they all end up in different places, on different scales.

"We as teachers can't have success-fail criteria," she said. "We just give them as many tools and as much information and options as possible" to make them feel good about having a baby.

THE TWO methods of prepared childbirth are closely related, but the two instructors said, their differences are basicly those of philosophy.

The Bradley method, said Miss Severin, focuses on the inner feelings of the woman, and considers labor a spiritual event. The method tries to focus "utter awareness on what is going on inside."

While the Lamaze method uses more divisionary methods such as levels of breathing and massage, Mrs. Zitzer sees the main difference as one of semantics. "We end up doing the same thing," she said. "Once in labor, the woman ends up going with it."

Both women agreed that prepared childbirth is really a way of making a woman confident enough to deal with her labor. The major point, said Miss Severin, is "to have her head in the right place. If it isn't she is going to freak."

Dr. Boyce added that it has been interesting to watch the development of the prepared childbirth concept.

We have gone from the situation where the husband is deliberately excluded, said Dr. Boyce of the two methods which use the father as an integral member of the childbirth team. He also added that the idea of fathers refusing to participate seems somewhat "culturally dated."

MRS. SAUNDERS, who is a member of a team of doctors and midwives practicing in the Point Reyes area, sees her work as a way of supporting the family apart from the actual childbirth. "We see them through the pregnancy. They've gotten to know us and we've gotten to know them," she said. As a midwife, she added, the majority of her work is labor sitting, "just being there and giving support."

The panelists, who agreed that in some cases women were preferring to have their babies at home rather than in the "institutionalized" hospital, still believe that changes in hospital practice will continue to meet demands.

"There will never be backsliding," said Mrs. Zitzer. "I hate to see people still thinking that the hospital is a bad place to be."

"We've gone a full circle" from the time when our grandmothers had children at home, said Miss Severin, and one of the biggest effects will be on the children. She also added that studies are now being conducted that will spend five years with a controlled gorup of mothers with alternative life style children.

Women Urged To Use Caution When Stopped

The National Safety Council warns women drivers to be wary of an unmarked "police" car whose occupant signals you to pull to the side of the road.

In recent months, several unsuspecting women have discovered that the "policeman" who approaches them turns out to be a rapist, robber or assailant.

If in doubt, don't stop for an unmarked car on a lonely stretch of road. Instead, acknowledge the other car's signal with your car's emergency flashing lights and proceed within the speed limit to a well-lighted area.

If you are stopped by a uniformed man, keep doors locked and windows closed. Expect an officer to show an identification card as well as a badge before you lower your window.

Title Of Yacht Queen Sought

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Staiger of Mill Valley. Miss Yachting will be named at a dinner dance in Jack London Square, Oakland, on Feb. 23.

Opportunities Talk Is Slated

A series of talks for women in Southern Marin titled, "Women and Their Opportunities," is scheduled at Community Congregational Church in Tiburon on five consecutive Thursdays, beginning tomorrow.

The first of the talks, from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 p.m., will be "Values Clarification" by counselor Lee Slimmons.

ON THE AGENDA

Zonta Club Schedules Benefit Performance Of 'The Drunkard'

A preview performance of "The Drunkard" will be held by the Zonta Club of Marin as a benefit theater party at 8:30 p.m. Friday at the Inside/Outside Cafe, the Great Store, 1122 Fourth Street, San Rafael.

The organization will take the 38-seat house for the evening to aid the group's scholarship fund, said club president Kathleen Poer of Corte Madera. Mmes. Joseph Q. Riznik and John Finn III are chairmen for the benefit.

"The Drunkard," adapted from the 1844 morality play, will be played to a hero-applauding and villain-hissing audience as beer, wine and pretzels are served. It will open to the public Feb. 22.

FRIENDS OF the League of Women Voters of Southern Marin will be honored by league members at a luncheon at noon Friday at the home of Mrs. Harold Schnurer of Tiburon.

Dale W. Luehring, general manager of the Golden Gate Bridge Highway and Transportation District, will talk about "Transit Progress to Date" after the luncheon.

The Friends assist the league with contributions which help finance the work of the Southern Marin League in sponsoring candidates nights, voter registration and the evaluation of ballot issues.

Mrs. Herbert Edger, league president, is luncheon chairman and will be assisted by members of the board of directors.

Museum Branch To Hold Luncheon

A new Belvedere-Tiburon Branch of the Museum Society has been formed and will hold a membership luncheon at noon tomorrow at the home of Mrs. Adolph Mueller of Belvedere.

The soceity is the membership organization for the Asian Arts Museum and fine arts museums in San Francisco, which include the Palace of the Legion of Honor and the De Young Memorial Museum.

Ian White of Ross, director of the Fine Arts Museums of San Francisco, and Mrs. Robert Phillips of San Francisco, president of the Museums Society, will speak.

The steering committee of the new branch, a pilot project, consists of Mmes. Richard Otter, Mueller, Richard Bates, Andrew McCord, J. Alec Merriam, K. L. Rice, Wallace Scott and Thomas Wiper.

The 20 new members will attend the branch luncheon.

Buses will leave from the fairgrounds entrance on Fairground Drive at 6:30 p.m. and return at midnight.

A LUNCHEON and demonstration of Japanese flower arrangement will be held by the Newcomers Club of Central Marin at noon Tuesday at 34 Twain Harte Lane, San Rafael.

Oelta Stevens, who studied in Japan and Okinawa and later became an assistant professor at the Ikenobo school in Kyoto, will give the demonstration.

The luncheon will be hosted by the club's yoga group, with Mary Pastore as reservations chairman.

A car pool will leave Petrini's parking lot in Greenbrae at 11:30 a.m. for the event.

An election of officers will be held for the first time since the recent change of major command at Hamilton. An interim volunteer board has been serving since last year when a new OWC was formed, according to Mrs. Thomas Burford of Novato, publicity chairman.

The OWC is now a multi service organization, representing all branches of the services.

A VALENTINE party will be held by Golden Gate Chapter of TWA Clipped Wings at 7 p.m. Saturday at the home of Peggy Bremer in Tiburon.

The party will be a social meeting for the group.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Speaking Of That %$%#& Stuff, It Won't Die; Too %$%#& Tough

DEAR HELEN:

Was it you who wrote a poem about crab grass? If so, would you repeat it, so I could send the clipping to my mother? — FORGETFUL READER

DEAR READER:

I've never printed a poem about crab grass, though I wrote one once in a fit of pique.

Does this fit the occasion?

That's the latest gardening jive.

So I love 'em and leaf 'em, but conversely speakin' —

Why, oh why, does my crab grass survive? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Regarding those paste-over prices on grocery items: A reader complained about mark-ups, saying the store bought the goods cheap, then upped the price each week, as inflation mounted, thus making a fat profit.

The reader doesn't realize we grocers are dealing in futures. We must replace those products at today's high prices, which will probably be even higher when we buy again. We must make the money now to pay for our next order, and our margin of profit is usually so small that a big jump in prices could wipe out a small operation.

Then, too, we can't carry the same item at several different prices, depending on when we purchased it, and we can't let our shelves get bare before we re-order. Customers would resent that almost more than multiple mark-ups. Nobody likes inflation, not the farmer, the middleman or the grocer, and certainly the consumer has a right to yell, but I hope he realizes this: We don't know who is getting rich from all these rising prices, but it isn't us! — STORE MANAGER

DEAR HELEN:

I am 24 and have been married six weeks. I love my husband very much except . . . he frightens me. We have had sex only once since our wedding night because I'm scared about that part of marriage. I am an only child, and never talked about such things at home. I can't talk to my parents now (even if they could get over their embarrassment) because they're 3,000 miles away. I need help!

My husband is kind and patient and really wonderful, but he can't understand why I'm so upset that I make all sorts of excuses. Don't other girls get scared? I feel overpowered and helpless and I want to scream and run away. — SUSAN T.

DEAR SUSAN:

Yes, other girls who have been as sheltered — perhaps frightened — as you were in your childhood come to marriage apprehensive.

But you have an advantage because your husband is kind and patient. Just as important: you admit you need help.

A marriage counselor who has had special training in sex therapy can probably solve your problem in a few husband-wife sessions; though it may take longer.

Call your local mental health association for a referral. — H.

Got a problem? An adult subject for discussion? A fun idea? You can talk it over in her column if you write to Helen Bottel, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

PARIS HAS gone 1930, harkening back to the days of turbans, cloche hats and dresses printed with art deco themes of 40 years ago. Furniture and paintings are also reflecting the mood of nostalgia.

(UPI Telephoto)

Paris Absolutely Wallowing In A Mood Of Nostalgia For 1930s

By ALINE MOSBY

PARIS (UPI) — Paris has put on marcel-waved hair and tango records and gone 1930.

Almost out of sight are the puffed shoulders and platform soles of the World War II styles that seized girls in the fashion capital for two years.

The latest trip to the 1930s is the new restaurant Regine, opened by that husky-voiced singer and night club impresario who is one of France's most popular show business fixtures.

Regine's new restaurant-discotheque off the Champs Elysees transports diners and dancers back to the '30s-lacquered walls, mirrors gleaming on the ceilings, palm trees, winecolored velvet chairs, ashtrays and paintings of the "art deco" geometric designs, an orchestra wailing foxtrots and tangos.

FOR THE opening night the "tout Paris" all Paris, or everybody who is anybody crowd turned up in the '30s styles right up to marcelled waves and platinum blonde Jean Harlow wigs on the women and oil-plastered hair and monocles on the men.

Mrs. Bernard Lanvin, wife of the director of the Lanvin high fashion salon, showed up in a 1931 pink Lanvin dress dripping with roses. Regine wore a gown by Poiret, the first Paris designer of the modern era.

Regine said she collected furnishings for the restaurant from the antique shops that have sprouted around Paris specializing in angular armchairs, lamps, Lalique crystal and other decor of the '30s.

The 1974 spirit in Paris wallows in nostalgia for the epoch of Jean Harlow, rumble seats and saddle shoes. Boutique windows sparkle with lame wraparound blouses, velvet bias-cut midiskirts and, T-strap sandals.

SOME WOMEN wear badges imprinted with photographs of 1935 film stars. Also "in" are ivory, crystal or amber necklaces.

Elle fashion magazine in December urged readers to go to New Year's Eve parties with long, printed silk scarves tied around their heads, scarf ends flowing in the breeze. Also recommended by Elle are ivory or amber cigarette holders and ostrich fans. Carita, Alexandre and the other hair stylists of Paris have decreed "marcel" waved hair for celebrating high-style occasions.

Fashion designer Yves Saint Laurent pushed the 1930 mood along with an October spring fashion show that had an air of that era. Ready-to-wear fashions in the shops already are full of dresses printed with "art deco" themes of 40 years back.

St. Valentine's Connection With Love Day An Accident

CLEVELAND (AP) — The exchange of cards and love tokens on Feb. 14 is a tradition that dates back hundreds of years, but apparently has only an accidental connection with St. Valentine, whose feast day it is.

Although there are various stories, most sources agree that there were two St. Valentines who, according to legend, suffered martyrdom about 270 A.D.

The custom of choosing valentines on this day was the outgrowth of an old belief that birds began to mate at this time of the year, according to researchers at the American Greetings Corp. here.

Young persons met on the eve of Valentine's Day, put their names into a receptacle and drew the names of the opposite sex as their valentines for the holiday's observance.

THE CUSTOM of exchanging sentimental verses is credited to Charles Duke of Orleans who first sent a poem on Valentine's Day to his wife in 1415.

By the late 17th century, Englishmen were sending greetings and gifts in large numbers to their ladies.

The custom of sending valentine cards came to America after 1723, when English verse writers came to this country to continue their craft. In those days, it was traditional to buy a book of verses and copy one onto gilt-edged letterpaper or to buy printed papers with golden cupids, bleeding hearts, lovers knots or turtledoves.

After 1800, a young man could buy a prepared valentine to send out. These cards were available not only with elaborate artwork but with a printed message on real lace.

AFTER 1870 comic designs came into vogue, and the sender had a larger selection from which to choose his message.

IMPROVE YOUR BEAUTY

Measurements Key To Weight

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN
Distributed by the Register and Tribune Syndicate
(Third in a series of 15 articles)

It is wonderful to be optimistic, but not as optimistic as the woman who wrote, "I am five feet and weigh 200 pounds. I have a nice figure but my thighs are a little large."

I think overweight slips up on folks, pound by pound, until they are so discouraged that they put off doing anything about it, or they become so accustomed to it they just take it for granted.

This is a great mistake! Overweight makes a woman look years older than she is. It can make her self-conscious and limit her activities and her choice of clothes.

It can make her tired, not to mention its damaging effect on health generally.

Actually it is possible for an overweight's measurements to be in good ratio (although all too large) and for those of a woman who is the ideal weight to be far out of line. Measurements are really the test with which to rate a figure. Therefore they are an important part of any figure beautification.

THIS IS the third day of my eight-week Beauty Improvement Plan. Yesterday you learned how to decide what your ideal weight is. Today let's talk about measurements.

The seams in your clothes have probably already told you, in no uncertain way, where you should slim most. However, you should measure at the beginning of this course and keep a record. Never measure more frequently than once a week. Every two weeks is better.

This is how you do it. Measure around the fullest portion of your bust. Wear the same bra each time or measure without one.

Measure around your natural waistline, around the most prominent part of your abdomen, around the largest part of your hips, then thighs, around the fullest portion of your calves and around your ankles. Be sure the tape measure goes straight around your body and try to pull it to the same tautness every time.

Here are some guidelines. There should not be more than two inches differences between your bust and hips. Your waist should be 10 inches smaller than your hips. There should be about six inches difference between your thigh and calf and about five between your calf and ankle.

HERE'S A WAIST slimmer that is most effective and fun, too. Stand with your feet separated. Take a large light ball (or a balloon is more fun) and raise it overhead. Reach as high as you can. Now twist your trunk to the left and try to touch the balloon to the floor behind you. Come as close as you can. Return to starting position with the balloon lifted high over your head, reaching for the sky. Continue, this time twisting to the right and touching the balloon to the floor behind you. Continue, alternating.

Market Deals In Nuclear Fuels

By MARTIN SKALA
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

SEA ISALND, Ga. — To meet burgeoning world demand for nuclear fuels to produce electric power, a commodities market with a novel twist is opening its doors in Atlanta.

Unlike the typical commodity futures exchange, the World Nuclear Fuel Market (WNFM) won't have a big trading floor with arm-waving brokers shouting out bids and offering prices. Speculative activity by the general public will be banned, at least initially. And the buyers and sellers, mostly well-heeled investors, utilities, and nuclear-reactor manufacturers, can't take delivery of the actual product without a government license.

Despite these restraints, Robert Kettner, president of Nuclear Assurance Corporation, is bullish about the rosy prospects for the first privately organized effort to foster a competitive market in fissionable materials.

The WNFM marks the first time all aspects of nuclear fuel buying and selling will be accessible through a single, nongovernment entity with a centralized information service. The market will be operated by Atlanta-based Nuclear Assurance Corporation, a privately owned firm with a computerized data bank that keeps track of every known piece of nuclear fuel in the noncommunist world.

Kettner hopes the WNFM will service as focal point for handling complex nuclear fuel transactions among various participants in the mining, processing, and using of uranium as an energy source.

Aside from government controls over the possession of fissionable materials, the market will respond to normal forces of supply and demand, he says. Like other commodity markets, the WNFM enables businessmen to contract for future delivery of important raw materials, while helping them hedge against unforeseen price swings and other risks.

Each transaction will be monitored by the Atomic Energy Commission to prevent anyone from taking delivery of fuel other than for peaceful purposes.

About 100 nuclear industry executives from the U.S., Japan, and Europe gathered here recently to inaugurate the fledgling marketplace and to approve a set of trading rules.

Industry's solid support of the new venture, Kettner says, reflects the "increasing attention" being paid to nuclear power as an alternative to increasingly expensive fossil fuels. Today, there are some 40 nuclear power plants in operation in the U.S. and about 82 others throughout the world. By 1984, this worldwide total is expected to reach 450.

This boom in building of atomic power plants, experts say, has to be matched by enormous growth in available supplies of nuclear fuel, which generates the steam heat needed to turn electric turbines.

By 1980 free world nuclear fuel expenditures, excluding plant and equipment costs, are projected to reach a whopping $4 billion, according to Kettner.

As the business opportunities open up, U.S. industry expects to play a key role in the mining, storage, and processing of nuclear fuels.

Although the government once kept a tight grip on the nuclear fuel business, private industry now mines uranium ore, fabricates reactor cores, and recycles the spent fuel for further use.

Only the enrighment of UF-6 ore to upgrade it to U235 (commonly called uranium) is still government monopoly.

The Atomic Energy Commission hopes this will change in the next few years, if industry agrees to make the huge investments to build and operate uranium-enrichment facilities.

WATER PROJECT

Corps Answers Critics

By FRANK FARRARA
(Second of two articles)

The proposed Warm Springs Dam is slightly more than a mile from the Healdsburg fault along which an earthquake rumbled in 1969, shaking Santa Rosa.

Furthermore, the dam's environmental impact statement said there are "40 major landslides" in the project area, State Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, reported recently.

Concerned about the earthquake-landslide potential, Behr referred the matter to the Legislature's joint committee on seismic safety which asked earthquake expert Karl Steinbrugger to investigate the dam's design.

"Should that dam fail, it would be the worst disaster in the history of Sonoma County," Behr said.

The environmental impact statement by the Army Corps of Engineers, attacked by critics as sketchy, said the 1906 earthquake apparently caused "only minor damage" in the area.

The corps reported that potential landslide areas are widespread in the project area, but it is unlikely that future slides "would be extensive."

The corps report says that long term adverse impacts of the project will include the loss of productive land (96 acres of foothills and valley), loss of 2,900 acres of wildlife habitat, reduction of wildlife species and loss of about 11 archaelogical sites "not considered significant."

During the construction period, there will be erosion, noise unsightly soil disposal, unsightly slope cuts, loss of recreation, displacement of wildlife, increased traffic and triggering of landslides, the corps reported.

Listing environmental benefits, the corps said "one of the main purposes is to reduce the flooding of the flat lands along Dry Creek and the Russian River."

The proposed dam will lower the flood stages in frequently-flooded Guerneville and reduce the land area flooded annually in the Russian River basin by about 4,000 acres, the corps reported.

The Warm Springs Task Force, a coalition of Sonoma County groups, said "the benefits of recreational lake with steep unstable banks" is "highly questionable." The group asserted the dam will result in increased development in the flood plain "so subsequent floods will produce more damage than before."

Acknowledging the loss of wildlife, the corps said about 3,200 acres of the project area will be set aside for wildlife management.

The project will block the annual upstream migration of about 6,000 steelhead trout and some coho salmon to spawn. To offset this effect the federal government will construct a fish hatchery, estimated to cost $1.17 million, below the dam, the corps reported.

To critics' charge the dam will induce growth in the area, the corps replied there have been "water rich areas" that haven't had large population growth; for example the Russian River basin where abundant water is available.

Critics also have asserted that the proposed recreational development, boating, swimming, camping, will lead to urbanization and result in heavy traffic flow.

The corps estimated that initially the proposed recreation development would accommodate one million persons annually, and ultimately would attract 1.5 million from within an 80-mile radius.

RUSSIAN RIVER FLOODS — Waters overflowing the banks of the Russian River, shown above, caused $4.485 million in damage last month downstream of the proposed Warm Springs dam, according to the Army Corps of Engineers. The crops estimated $3.7 million in damage would have been prevented by the dam. (Photos by Army Corps of Engineers)

Impact Report Supports Expansion At Gnoss Field

Expansion of Gnoss Field to more than triple the number of airplane flights annually —as proposed in a long-range master plan — will not cause major environmental damage.

That conclusion is reached in a recently completed environmental impact report prepared by the consulting firm of Wilsey and Ham to accompany its 20-year master plan for the county airport.

The report, currently being reviewed by various federal, state and local agencies, says the major environmental impact would be the loss of about 100 acres of agricultural bay plain wildlife habitat and increases in noise and air pollution.

However, it continues, expansion would not result in air or noise pollution above acceptable standards and the 100 acres do not contain "important wildlife breeding, nesting or feeding grounds."

It adds that the expansion would increase employment at the airport from the current 40 jobs to as many as 120 by 1992 and would be the sole publicly owned link to the national system of airports.

The environmental report notes that the master plan calls for some $7.4 million worth of improvements at the airport over the next two decades. About $3.1 million would come from local sources and $4.3 million from the federal government.

(The master plan, submitted last summer, has been in limbo, awaiting completion of the environmental report. While it has been approved by the aviation commission, the master plan has yet to come before the county planning commission or board of supervisors.)

The environmental report, meanwhile, totals 52 pages but devotes much space to a recap of the master plan, including its maps and charts and some 16 pages of reference titles and acknowledgements.

Currently, about 135 aircraft are based at Gnoss Field and 126,000 takeoffs and landings annually. It could handle up to 210,000 operations each year.

The master plan calls for about 600 aircraft at the airport in 20 years and some 420,000 operations annually. To reach that number, a second runway must be built along with support facilities.

The environmental report says this will require acquisition of about 370 acres of surrounding land, much of which is in agricultural use.

"Construction of the proposed development is not expected to interfere with important wildlife breeding, nesting or feeding grounds." The report says, adding habitats for the endangered California clapper rail and salt marsh harvest mouse are beyond the limits of the proposed expansion.

"Projections indicate that 1992 contributions will not exceed California ambient air quality or noise standards which are based on criteria of human tolerance," it says. No tests were made on the sensitivity of wildlife to increased noise and air pollution, however,

The major noise impact from airplanes will fall on lands adjacent to the airport that are currently undeveloped but recommended for residential use in the Novato General Plan, the report says.

It recommends against new residential development in those areas.

Rain runoff from the Mount Burdell watershed to the west will not be affected by developments and will continue to be handled through a system of pumps and culverts, the report added.

Span's January Traffic Count Drops 3.75 Pct.

January vehicle traffic across the Golden Gate Bridge dropped 3.73 per cent as Marin and Sonoma County commuters turned to mass transit in increasing numbers.

The figures were reported by Dale W. Luehring, general manager of the Golden Gate Bridge District. In making the report Luehring also noted declines in traffic and revenue for the 1973 calendar year.

Luehring said that 2,533,122 vehicles crossed the span in January 1973, compared to 2,631,384 vehicle crossings recorded during the first month of 1972. Traffic during the 6 to 10 a.m. commute hours also declined, as the district's buses continued to run full and its ferryboat, Golden Gate, recorded a patronage increase of 8.21 per cent increase over January 1972.

According to Luehring, 34,439,788 vehicles crossed the span during 1973, down .0045 per cent from the 1972 figure of 34,594,156. The vehicle drop resulted in a revenue decline of $17,634 from the 1972 figure of $8,526,267.

Hongisto Praises New College's Student Program At His Facility

Students participating in the first year of a program for community involvement through New College in Sausalito have been praised by Sheriff Richard D. Hongisto of San Francisco for their work at the San Francisco County Jail.

"Functioning as counselors, job developers, paralegal and administrative assistants, these magnificent young people have, in a mere six months, literally transformed the county jail," Hongisto said in a letter to New College president John Leary.

"With youthful ingenuity, the students have not only helped to correct injustices, but have made innovative suggestions for solving operational and legistic problems. Many of these suggestions are now standard procedure," Hongisto wrote.

"Officers, deputies, civilian personnel and inmates are unstinting in their praise of the students . . . additionally, their presence has lowered jail tensions significantly, not only resulting in better living conditions for the inmates, but greatly alleviating the many pressures put upon the guards."

Twenty of 40 students in the University year for the action program, funded by a three-year federal grant calling for $155,000 a year, currently are working fulltime at the San Bruno facility.

Six of the 20 are former felons, according to Leary. All are from low-income families and receive 12 units of credit per semester from New College, tuition-free.

They also receive $167 per month and a lump sum of $600 at the end of the program, totaling $2,000 each for the year.

"The students are social-minded and activistic, in a constructive way," Leary said. "Doing this is more enriching to them than making a lot of money."

The community program, supervised by Ruth Maguire, also includes 10 students working with an architectural firm and 10 in paralegal activities.

Review Agency Plans On Agenda

A revised proposal for an advisory review agency to screen projects of countywide significance will be considered by the Ross Town Council tomorrow at 8 p.m. in town hall.

Mayor Frederick S. Allen said the revised proposal includes "minor wording changes" as requested by Tiburon. The Ross council previously approved participation in the review agency.

The review agency would evaluate major projects as they relate to the Marin County General Plan. It will be advisory only.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

Rules For Retirement Income Come Under Special Section

If you are over 65 years old, or if you are under 65 years old but retired under a public retirement system such as firemen, policemen, etc., then your retirement income may be subject to the Retirement Income Credit.

In order to qualify, you or your deceased spouse must have earned an income, not counting pensions or annuities, of at least $600 in any previous years. Since California is a community property state and half of all income earned by one spouse is attributed to the other, most married couples who have lived here for over 10 years will both meet the test. The credit cannot be for more than the total tax due and so result in a refund claim.

If you are over 65 years old, then you are also entitled to the extra personal exemption for over 65. Also pension and annuity payments come under one of three groups: fully taxable, partially taxable and tax free.

There are two different rules for taxing annuity income. The first rule is the life expectancy method. Under this rule, each payment you receive is considered to consist of two parts — a return of cost and income. Only the part which is income is taxed. This method is based on two things: the cost of the annuity and the expected return.

The three-year rule applies where part of the cost of the annuity was paid by the employee and he will get back what he paid within three years. Under this rule, all annuity payments are treated as a return of cost and excludable from income until the cost of the annuity which was paid by the employee has been recovered tax free. All receipts thereafter are taxable.

Silver Prices

NEW YORK (UPI) — Handy and Harman today quoted silver at 515.0 cents per fine ounce .down 55.0 cents. Engelhard quoted silver bullion at 515.0 down 55.0 cents and fabricated silver at 520.2 down 55.6 cents.

Bargain Hunters Give Market Boost

New YORK (UPI) — Bargain hunting among recently depressed oils and glamor issues gave stock prices a lift today on the New York Stock Exchange, but trading remained sluggish.

Some analysts believed the market was in an oversold condition, with bargain prices too good for many to resist.

In the news, a Kuwait Embassy spokesman in Beirut said a meeting of Arab oil ministers set to begin Thursday in Tripoli has been postponed indefinitely.

Oil issues with no direct ties to Arab oil were among the early gainers. Superior rose 2, Atlantic Richfield 1 ⅞, Getty 1 ¼. Halliburton, a glamor oil field service issue, added 2 ¾.

Among mostly higher transportation issues, Union Pacific added 1½.

Select Package Homes Inc. Will Open In Northgate Industrial Park

Select Package Homes Inc., a new corporation that will market prefabricated homes, will open at Northgate Industrial Park in March.

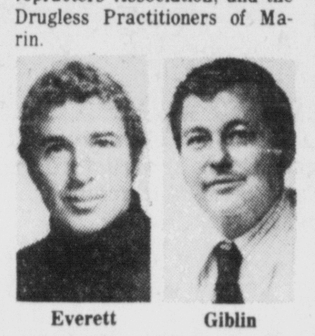
The company, headed by President Fred Kelley of Sonoma, leased office space in suite 5 at 77 Mark Drive through the William Hoey Co. It will be a sales office for a variety of prefabricated houses and commercial buildings, said Kelley. "We hope to open about March 10."

The company will market the pre-fabs throughout the state but primarily in the Bay Area.

A resident of Sonoma for the past 18 years, Kelley has been in the pre-fab business for 20 years, the last 10 years in marketing pre-fab structures. Two other principals in the business are Ed Bogart of Santa Rosa, who has been in prefab work for 10 years, and Carl Young of Healdsburg, who has 40 years of experience in the building business.

DR. EDWARD C. EVERETT of San Rafael, chiropractic specialist, opened his practice today at 612 D Street, near the corner of D and First Streets in San Rafael.

A 1966 graduate of the Los Angeles College of Chiropractice, he practiced in Killington, Vermont, for three years before coming to San Rafael. Dr. Everett is a member of the Marin County Chiropractic Information Bureau, International Chiropractors Association, and the Drugless Practitioners of Marin.



Everett Giblin

HARDING-LAWSON ASSOCIATES of San Rafael, consulting engineers and geologists, announced the appointment of Jere A. Giblin as engineer-in-charge of its Santa Rosa office.

Giblin has been with the firm for 10 years. He is a registered civil engineer and a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, National Society of Professional Engineers, and California Society of Professional Enginners.

DECORATORS WAREHOUSE, featuring a wide variety of gift and home decor merchandise, has moved from Hamilton Industrial Park and will re-open on Friday at Novato Fair Shopping Center in Novato.

The retail store has taken over space formerly occupied by Coast To Coast Hardware, next to Grant's.

Alan Hansen of Corte Madera, manager of Decorators Warehouse, said the new store is more convenient for his customers, because the bulk of them come from North Marin. The store features such items as wall decor, European wicker and willow furniture, handthrown pots, planters and pottery, with prices ranging from 35 cents to $200. "Our motto is something for everyone," said Hansen.

KRAIG KRAMERS of San Rafael has been promoted by Fibreboard Corporation, a San Francisco-based forest products company. He was named manager of business planning in the paperboard products group. His responsibilities include long-range planning, new business planning and development, advertising and marketing services.

Kramers joined Fibreboard in 1972 after serving as product manager with Stromberg Datagraphix Inc. in San Diego.

ANTIQUE ALLEY in San Rafael will reopen tomorrow with a completely new format, featuring a full line of antique clothing from the 1930's backward to about 1880.

"We also have all the accessories for each period of time," said Lee Sexton, owner of the shop at 1014 Tamalpais Avenue. "We carry jewelry, small collectables, good books, and some lovely pictures. We deal in the trivia; no furniture for sale here."

She said her shop will allow today's generation to step back into the past. Antique Alley, which has been operating for almost seven years, has been closed temporarily for extensive remodeling and complete change in format. Store hours are 12 noon to 5 p.m. every day, except Wednesdays and Sundays, when it is closed.

Holtzman At Baseball Arbitration Table Seven Hours

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "We've been underpaid too long," said Reggie Jackson, one of the Oakland A's stars waiting to face owner Charles O. Finley across the arbitration table.

Pitcher Ken Holtzman, a 20-game winner last baseball season, was first on the list and his hearing yesterday lasted seven hours. A 15-minute wrapup session was scheduled today.

"I would have stayed 12 hours if I thought it would help," said the left-hander, who is seeking about $100,000.

Reliever Rollie Fingers' hearing began late yesterday and bullpen partner Darold Knowles was scheduled for a hearing today before the arbitrator, Howard S. Block of Los Angeles.

Other arbitrators were hearing cases in New York and Chicago today involving players and their teams unable to reach agreement under baseball's standard system of negotiating contracts. More than 50 players — nine from the A's — have submitted their names for arbitration. Pitchers Dave McNally of Baltimore, Tommy John of Los Angeles and Ken Brett of Pittsburgh and infielders Fred Patek and Cookie Rojas of Kansas City and Graig Nettles of the New York Yankees are said to be among them.

Dick Woodson, a 28-year-old pitcher for the Minnesota Twins, had the distinction Monday of becoming the first player to have his salary dispute aired before a neutral arbitrator. "I'm glad I'm the first case.It's sort of setting the ground rules for others," said Woodson, who reportedly earned $19,000 with the Twins last year.

"This system is very fair. Both parties have a good opportunity to present their views before an impartial third party," said attorney Jerry Kapstein, representing Holtzman, Fingers and Knowles.

Under the arbitration system, which became available to players only this year, the arbitrator must select either the salary figure offered by the club or that requested by the player.

"For the first time, a player does not have to be in the position of either accepting the owner's figure or finding a new way to make a living," said Marvin Miller, head of the Players' Association, who is attending the hearings here.

Jackson and Sal Bando are shooting for more than $100,000 each. Joe Rudi, Gene Tenace, Ted Kubiak and Jack Heidemann are the other Oakland players involved.

Wickert Eager To Join Dolphins

Tom Wickert is very excited and enthusiastic about his chances of playing professional football.

Wickert, football player at Washington State, will get his chance to make the roster of the best team in football, the Miami Dolphins. He was home in Greenbrae long enough to listen to Doug Minner, the Dolphins' chief west coast scout, and to sign a contract. Then it was back to classes at Pullman, Wash.

TOM WICKERT

A ninth round draft choice of the Dolphins, Wickert turned down a juicy two-year, no-cut contract with Calgary of the Canadian Football League to sign with Miami. He signed his one-year Miami contract eight days after being drafted and during that time had not even been contacted by Philadelphia of the World Football League, a team which drafted the former Redwood High School lineman in the 10th round.

It would have had to be quite an offer by Philly since Tom had set his sights on the NFL.

"I always wanted to play in the NFL," said Wickert before leaving for classes at Washington State. "In Canada I think I could go up there and start. It's going to be harder to make it in the NFL, but I want a chance to do it. I'm lucky to get the chance to go to Miami and I hope I can fit into their program."

ALTHOUGH AN OFFENSIVE tackle at Washington State, Wickert was drafted as a guard by Miami. The regular guards for the Dolphins are among the best in the game, Larry Little and Bob Keuchenberg, so Tom realizes his chances of unseating either of them are nil. He thinks his best chance of making it is being a backup lineman for both guard and tackle, and a member of the special teams.

He'll be reporting to Miami Beach March 1. "They'll be testing our speed and running us through some drills," he said about the three-day rookie camp. "They'll be able to tell us our strengths and weaknesses and what we should work on before reporting to training camp in July."

FROM NOW TO JULY, in addition to his schooling, Tom will be working out, getting ready for his big chance with Miami. It's a strength and endurance program, more specifically weight lifting and running.

Wickert said he was told by Minner that in his book he was a marginal player last spring at Washington State practices, but really progressed through the season, culminating in his strong showing in the Shrine East West game Dec. 29. It was on this improvement factor that Miami drafted him.

"I feel my potential is still coming up," Wickert said. "I started feeling good the second half of the season, really stronger.

"I'M VERY FORTUNATE in going to a team that won the world championship, a team that has the best offensive line in the game. There's always Canada ball if I don't make it. But don't get me wrong. I'm not going to Florida with a negative attitude. I'm going there with the idea of making the 40-man roster."

He's got the right attitude, the only kind to have when you're trying to win a job with the best team in pro football. But who knows? Wickert just might get that chance to block for that brute who answers to the name of Larry Csonka.

Marin Battling For Life

An array of forces ranging from tiny microorganisms all the way up to 6-foot-10 Bob Ross is stacked against College of Marin as the Tars prepare to play a life-or-death basketball game tonight in Los Altos.

The 8 p.m. clash against Foothill College will determine whether Marin remains alive in its effort to retain its Camino Norte Conference championship.

20-2 RECORD

Marin (20-2 overall) carries an 8-2 league record into the game. Foothill is 9-1 and De Anza of Cupertino is 10-0, so another loss would kill the Tars' hopes, barring complete collapse by the other two teams.

Marin has been severely hit by the flu bug in the past week. Although forward John Channell is recovering, center Charles Saine, forward George Swift and guards John Peloza and Jared McFerrin are ailing, coach John Panagakis said this morning.

CRITICAL

The 6-foot-5 Saine's loss is critical, since the Tars need every large body they have to combat Foothill's rebounding strength. "The boards certainly are the key," Panagakis said.

Foothill's Ross dominated the boards in the teams' last meeting, a 54-48 Owl victory in Kentfield Jan. 12 which knocked the Tars from the unbeaten ranks after 14 victories. Ranked third in the state at the time, Marin later fell to ninth and is now eighth.

PLAYING WELL

"He's been playing well since then, too," said Panagakis of the big Foothill center.

The Tars will send 6-4 all-stater Wil Garner to the boards, and try to assist him with 6-4½ Harry Norman, 6-4 Bill Gombos, 6-3 Duke Bessee and 6-4 Channell.

West Is Slight Favorite In Army All-Star Game

The West is a slight favorite to even the series tomorrow night when the fourth annual East-West College All-Star basketball classic is played at 8 o'clock at Terra Linda High School.

After Darnell Hillman (Indiana Pacers) led the West to victory in 1971, the East has come back to win in 1972 and 1973.

Tomorrow's clash will pit some of the best college players from the West (now in the Army) against many of the top stars from the East.

Hal Fischer, former coach of U.S. teams in the Olympic Games and Pan-American Games, has aided in the player selection for tomorrow's contest.

Some of the players who have particularly impressed Fischer include:

DOUG CLEVENGER (West Point): A 6-3 guard who is expected to start for the East. Clevenger was an all-NIT selection in 1971.

ALEX SCOTT (New Mexico State): A 6-4 forward for the West. Scott is the top scorer in the history of New Mexico State.

JOHN BENION (BYU): An All-Big Sky selection in 1972 and 1973 who will compete for the West team.

EDDIE BROWN (Houston-Baptist College): Brown scored 41 points against the University of Houston's top-ranked team in 1971. He will play for the West.

TED CAMPBELL (North Carolina A and T): Campbell is a two-time little All-American who competed in the 1973 World Games in Brazil. At 6-7, 260 pounds, Campbell will start for the East.

WILLIE COLLINS (Bishop College): Collins was a little All-American and the Nation's fourth leading scorer in 1972.

CLARENCE KNOLES (Loyola of Chicago): A 6-5 forward who will start for the East. Knoles was a second round draft choice of the Carolina Cougars of the ABA.

GARLAND WILLIAMS (Southwestern Louisiana): A 6-9 pivotman who was an honorable mention All-American in 1973.

Admission is $1. A 6:30 p.m. preliminary game will be played between the eighth grade team from Santa Venetia Middle School and Davidson Junior High.

Seals Face Bruins In Oakland

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Boston Bruins skate into the Coliseum Arena tonight at 8 o'clock against the California Golden Seals and that means center Ivan Boldirev has to try to handle Bruin star Phil Esposito.

Boldirev has been playing well lately with 20 goals and eight assists over the past month while Esposito has piled up 47 goals and 52 assists so far this season.

"It doesn't bother me to play against Espo," said Boldirev. "In fact, I like to play against him. You learn a lot following him around. You improve yourself playing against better players.

"However, you can't concentrate on scoring. Usually against those guys they have the puck most of the time."

He said that Esposito "plays deep in the slot and I have to stand out there with him. You have to stay with him, concentrate on him and don't worry about going into the corners to help the defense. If the puck is in the corner you have to position yourself between him and the puck."

Hall Of Fame Tabs 'Cool Papa'

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Cool Papa" Bell, a speedster who played a shallow centerfield in the tradition of Tris Speaker and Willie Mays, today was named to baseball's Hall of Fame by the Special Committee on the Negro Leagues.

Bell, who started his career in the old Negro Leagues at $90 a month and never made more than $450 a month before retiring in 1950, is the fifth former Negro League star to be named by the committee.

The other four are Satchel Paige, Josh Gibson, Buck Leon- and Monte Irvin. Bell, who lives in St. Louis, will be inducted into the Hall of Fame on Aug. 12th at Cooperstown along with Mickey Mantle and Whitey Ford, who were voted into the Hall by the Baseball Writers Association of America, and with the three members—Jim Bottomley, Sam Thompson and umpire Jocko Conlon—named by the Veterans' committee.

Bell's speed on the basepaths and in the outfield was legendary.

"Why he was so fast he could turn out the light and jump into bed before the room got dark," quipped Paige, whose career in the Negro Leagues spanned the same decades that Bell's did.

Bell claims to have stolen two bases on one pitch—a pitchout. "The catcher, why he was so surprised the way I was runnin' that he just held the ball," Bell remembers.

Bell was born in Starkville, Miss. in 1903 and spent long hours as a kid in the cotton fields.

"If I didn't know anythin', I knew how to work," Bell says.

By the age of 16, he was in St. Louis with several of his brothers and sisters working in a packinghouse.

He played ball on Sundays, getting $20 to pitch. After a good game against the St. Louis Stars of the Negro National League, he was asked to join the team and he stayed with them until they folded during the depression.

He also played with the Washington Homestead Grays and managed the Kansas City Monarchs B team in 1948 before winding up his career two years later.

The 70-year-old Bell, acting as if he was in his mid-50s, showed that he's as "cool" off the field as he used to be on it.

"It's a high honor and I'm grateful for it, but I never did get excited about a lot of things. I didn't jump up and down and holler and call all my friends. They'll find out about it," he said.

WARRIORS FALL

Celtics Run To Victory

OAKLAND (UPI) — Two superstars twinkled brightly but one of them got more help than the other.

That was the story last night as the Golden State Warriors lost a 13-point lead and fell 107-102 to Boston. Since Los Angeles also lost, the Warriors stayed a half-game up on the Lakers in the Pacific Division.

Barry hit 17-of-31 shots for 37 points while grabbing 14 rebounds and adding nine assists and three steals. Havlicek hit 14-of-24 shots and 34 points, hitting 10-of-14 in the second half and 15 points in the final period.

A disappointed Barry said after the game that, "if they had shot even 50 per cent down the stretch, we would have been in it, but everything they threw up was going in. Havlicek didn't kill us as much as Cowens and White making those 20-footers."

While Havlicek was running wild his teammates bombed away with deadly accuracy. Cowens finished with 22 points and 17 rebounds, White hit 16 and Paul Silas also had 16 points and 18 rebounds after coming off the bench.

The Warriors led 53-40 late in the second period but saw their lead evaporate. It was 89-82 early in the fourth quarter but Havlicek scored six straight points and later hit a jumper with 5:54 to go to give Boston a 93-92 lead it never relinquished.

Celtic Coach Tom Heinsohn seemed to think it was a fairly typical win for his team. He said that "playing well down the stretch is nothing new for us. We've been running and winning games in the late going for four years. With our personnel, we have to rely on speed and quickness to do it or we won't win."

Goalie Gets His Confidence Back

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

There he was, before the eyes of millions of fans on national television, being yanked from the game after just six minutes of play. Phil Myre, the Atlanta goaltender, had seen only two shots during that time but had allowed both to get past him.

To be certain that none of the drama was lost, the television camera rested idly on his face while Myre sat in a corner of the Atlanta bench, the selfdisgust on his face evident from one coast to the other.

That was only a couple of days ago, on Sunday afternoon, when Myre was treated to this humiliation in a game against Los Angeles. Last night, Flames' Coach Bernie Geoffrion sent his young goalie back into the fire, explaining later, "I had to put him in in order not to ruin his confidence. He's a good stand-up goalie, kicks very well with the legs, and when he's hot he can be unbeatable."

Myre withstood the test very well, turning back all but one of the 25 shots New York directed at him as Atlanta whipped the Islanders 4-1. It was an important triumph for the Flames as it pushed them back into a tie for fourth place with Los Angeles in the West Division of the National Hockey League, just one point behind the St. Louis Blues, who dropped a 3-2 decision to Vancouver in the only other game played.

In the World Hockey Association, Houston beat Minnesota 3-1, Chicago beat Edmonton 3-2, Toronto beat Quebec 6-4 and Winnipeg beat Los Angeles 4-2.

First period goals by Rey Comeau and Larry Romanchych gave Myre all the margin he needed, with Curt Bennett and Keith McCreary adding insurance goals. Ed Westfall finally broke the shutout bid with less than seven minutes left.

"I sort of expected to play today," Myre said. "I was told definitely this morning by Boomer (Geoffrion). It was a gesture of confidence. He said, 'Get in the nets and give 'em hell.' Speaking of hell, he gave us what for in practice yesterday, skating us an awful lot."

Canucks 3, Blues 2

Bryan McSheffrey and John Gould scored within a 14-second span of the second period to pin the Blues with their sixth consecutive defeat. It was only the second time in their four-year history that the Canucks have beaten St. Louis.

WORLD HOCKEY ASSOCIATION

Aeros 3, Fighting Saints 1

Larry Lund, skating the length of the ice, scored his 20th goal to break a 1-1 tie at 12:56 of the final period and help snap a four-game Minnesota winning streak. Ted Taylor then got the clincher for Houston by shooting into an empty net with six seconds left to play. The Aeros, first in the West Division of the WHA, now lead runnerup Winnipeg by 10 points and the Saints by 12.

Cougars 3, Oilers 2

Toros 6, Nordiques 4

Tom Simpson scored three goals as Toronto overcame a 3-0 deficit to defeat Quebec and move into second place in the East, a point ahead of the Nordiques. Serge Bernier had two goals for Quebec.

Jets 4, Sharks 2

USF's Smith Named Nor Cal Player Of Week

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Northern California basketball writers have named Phil Smith of the University of San Francisco Player of the Week after he hit 47 points in two wins over Santa Clara while holding Bronco star Jerry Bellotti to 20.

Coach Bob Gaillard told the writers that "six games into his sophomore year I said Phil Smith would be the best guard USF ever had. I haven't seen anything to change my mind."

He called Smith a, "subtly sensational player. He isn't flashy but he can take over a game. His defensive effort has been great."

Baseball Pace Picking Up

Combined AP & UPI

Several signings, a trade, an honor and a confirmation made the news this morning as the pace of baseball activity picked up in the days preceding spring training.

Cincinnati second-baseman Joe Morgan joined the prestigious $100,000 salary club after an all-star season in which he batted .290, hit 26 home runs and stole 67 bases.

Other signees included Kansas City pitcher Paul Splittorff and Pittsburgh relievers Dave Giusti and Kent Tekulve.

In Boston, the American League announced that California's Nolan Ryan, who pitched two no-hitters and set the single-season strikeout record of 383, had been named the first recipient of the newly created Joe Cronin Trophy for "singular achievement over the course of a season."

Texas and Cleveland completed a trade which sent former Indian catcher Ken Suarez back to the Tribe for shortstop Leo Cardenas.

And in San Francisco, National League president Charles (Chub) Feeney said the sale of the San Diego Padres to hamburger chain magnate Ray A. Kroc was official.

Secretariat Indeed Fails Fertility Test

PARIS, Ky. (UPI) — Claiborne Farm President Seth Hancock conceded yesterday that superhorse Secretariat and his stablemate Riva Ridge had failed their fertility tests as defined by their $11.08 million syndication agreements.

Hancock said the farm in this southeastern Kentucky community hoped to breed the colts to a full book of mares this year under revised syndicate agreements.

A local newspaper (the Paris Daily Enterprise) reported yesterday that members of the Secretariat syndicate, if agreeable, would be allowed to breed mares to the Triple Crown winner without paying a stud fee this year.

The newspaper said that if Secretariat then gets 60 per cent of his mares in foal he would be retained by the syndicate, but if he failed to reach that percentage, Secretariat would become the property of Lloyd's of London.

Mt. Tam Avenges Basketball Defeat

Mt. Tamalpais School (8-5) avenged an earlier loss yesterday with a 57-39 basketball victory at Marin Academy (1-12), as Jeff Edwards scored 14 points, Bruce Stephens 13 and Neil King 12 for the winners to offset Rod McNeil's 19 for Marin Academy.

The triumph gave Mt. Tam a 4-4 record in the Bay Counties League. Marin Academy is 1-7. The Mt. Tam junior varsity also won, 46-30.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Some Tips On The Sailboat Market

Fiber glass boats are almost certain to be in short supply and more expensive later on, and here's why. The fuel shortage means a shortage also in other chemical products made from petroleum.

The main ones that affect boating are ethylene and benzene, two materials from which the resins that go into reinforced plastic boats are made.

Petrochemicals are so scarce that some boat builders may close down temporarily until the supply improves. The Wall Street Journal says that one big boat maker, Whittaker Corporation of Los Angeles, will begin layoffs and short work weeks soon. It is typical of others in the industry.

Sales are expected to sag by 10 to 25 per cent. It's not due to a lessened demand, but rather a shortage of material.

Another factor in sailboat sales will be the threat of less gasoline for power boats this year. Hundreds of boat-minded people are turning to sailing. At the moment, there is a very large inventory of sailboats in marine dealers' hands because the entire industry has been making the biggest pitch in its history to capture a whole generation of sailors.

LAST YEAR, for instance, a dozen boat makers who formerly made only power boats or big sophisticated sailing craft offered the biggest selection of small, speedy, sporty sailboats or "sailboards."

These economical craft as great for beginners just learning the art of controlling wind power. But even in the hands of experts, they are exciting competitive racing machines.

If you have always wanted to try sailing, you couldn't pick a better year. The cost? Somewhere between $500 and $1,000, depending on the type of small craft you choose, and whether or not you have to trailer it.

All the 25 or more designs available fall within the limits of 300 to 500 pounds and are 11 to 14 feet in length. Many are more easily carried by car-top than by trailer.

DECIDE FOR YOURSELF which type of boat you like best. The small craft with the hull you sit "on," rather than "in," is faster and sportier than those with a more conventional shape. However, they ride wetter and are generally for summer and warm water use.

There are catamarans avilable too, and they are even faster. Many will do 20 miles per hour even in a gentle breeze.

Small sailcraft are excellent for children to learn on. They teach a great respect for the water because it is always so close. They are also quite safe for youngsters after the kids have had a reasonable amount of instruction. Without exception young people learn to right a boat after it has been knocked over by the wind. All craft have flotation so that they will not sink, even when full of water or completely capsized.

Besides offering a thrilling new world of experience for children. It's good practice for sailing safety if they graduate to bigger craft later on.

GEORGE O'DAY, one of America's most famous Olympic sailing skippers, once said that anyone can learn to sail in a day — and he wrote a book with that title a few years ago. It's an excellent text for the sailing novice.

But at the same time O'Day will be the first to admit that even after a lifetime, there is always something new to learn, and some new experience to be enjoyed in sailing. He has been responsible for introducing some of the fastest, most exicitng sailing craft now being used in competition.

So don't let the fuel shortage get you down. Go sailing! It's cheaper than you think.

Women's Athletics Proposal Attacked

COLORADO SPRINGS (UPI) — "Impending doom is around the corner" if a plan is adopted forcing all college and university athletic departments to spend as much on women's athletics as on the men's programs, according to the executive secretary of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

"We have no quarrels with people that want student fees and school funds split between men and women," Walter Byers said yesterday during the 1974 NCAA Media Seminar. "What we are against is saying that dollars generated in men's sports must be taken to finance women's sports or that a donor gives scholarship money earmarked for a certain sport and it can't go for that sport.

"Impending doom is around the corner if that plan is implemented. We are not against building women's programs but people must realize that intercollegiate athletics has taken more than 50 years to build the financial foundation it is on today and this regulation would totally alter the present program."

The regulation Byers referred to is a proposal by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare that could become part of the Civil Rights Act. Failure to comply could cost a school all its federal funds.

"Under the proposal, if an institution has an intercollegiate football, basketball or other type of sports program, it must provide members of the opposite sex with a comparable opportunity to participate in sports," said Robert C. James, commissioner of the Atlantic Coast Conference and chairman of the NCAA's Legislative Committee.

James said "comparable opportunity" did not allow a school to merely open competition in all sports to women, but required that if a sport was mainly geared for one sex—like football is for men—the school must provide similar funds and facilities for the opposite sex in another sport.

"If we have an intercollegiate football team, which understandably is male dominated, the fact that women don't want to participate does not give a school an exception from providing them a comparable opportunity," James said. "You must provide them with comparable practice areas, staffs comprised of similar coaches, trainers for them—right on down the line—even if you can't find women that want to participate."

James said under the proposal gate receipts generated from an event or money donated specifically for the sport must be matched with funds for women's athletics.

THIS DAY IN SPORTS ®

DeMont, Backhaus Make List

Nine performances by Marin Aquatic Club swimmers have made the top 25 list of 1973 times published in the January edition of Swimming World magazine, the recognized authority in the sport.

Heading the list is the world record of 3:58.11 for the 400-meter freestyle set by Rick DeMont in the World Championships in Belgrade, Yugoslavia, in September.

DeMont also had the second-best time in the 1,500 free — an American record 15:35.44 which netted him second place in Belgrade behind Australia's phenomenal Stephen Holland, who swam 15:31.85.

Robin Backhaus had the world's best time for 1973 in the 200 meter butterfly, 2:03.32, also at Belgrade. Either Rick or Robin had a hand in all nine performances.

Backhaus ranked fourth with his 56.42 in the 100 fly at Belgrade; fourth with 1:54.63 in the 200 free at the Amateur Athletic Union Nationals in Louisville, Ky., in August; 13th with 16:12.64 in the 1,500 free in Los Angeles in August; and 14th with 4:05.08 in the 400 free in Los Angeles in August.

DeMont had a 10th with 1:55.60 in the 200 free at Los Altos in July.

The pair also swam on the 400 medley relay team which did 4:01.10, ranking 11th in Louisville. DeMont swam freestyle, Backhaus did butterfly, Keith Strange did breaststroke and Art Morrill did backstroke.

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The 257 hits made by George Sisler for the old St. Louis Browns in 1920 stands as one of baseball's most durable records.

NBA ROUNDUP

Calvin Is Not So Small

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

They said Calvin Murphy was too small to play high school basketball. They claimed he was too tiny to play in the college ranks and that his size was prohibitive for the pros.

Murphy, who has been showing the NBA for the last four seasons that a good small man can find a niche in the play for pay game, scored 21 of his 25 points in the second half last night in leading Houston past Los Angeles 129-119.

The loss kept the Lakers a half-game back of Golden State in the Pacific Division after the Warriors dropped a 107-102 verdict to Boston.

Mike Newlin, one of coach Johnny Egan's pleasant scoring surprises this season, hit 30 points as Houston set a club record of five consecutive victories. A 27-point performance by Rudy Tomjanovich was another spark that ignited the Rocket attack.

In other NBA action, New York beat Buffalo 100-93, Chicago topped Milwaukee 93- 81, Detroit defeated Kansas City-Omaha 113-106, Portland whipped Phoenix 113-104 and Capital rapped Cleveland 107-99.

Bulls 93, Bucks 81

Chicago moved to within two games of first place Milwaukee in the Midwest division as Bob Love led the Bulls with 34 points, including a 6-for-7 second quarter field goal bombardment. Kareem AbdulJabbar's 30 points couldn't stop the hot Bulls, who have won 12 of their last 13 games.

Knicks 100, Braves 93

Buffalo, the league's leading offensive team, couldn't make believers out of the Knicks as New York avenged Saturday's three-point overtime loss to the Braves. Phil Jackson scored 24 points but it was a pair of baskets and an assist by Earl Monroe in the last two minutes that dealt Buffalo the loss. Bob McAdoo led the Braves with 23 points.

Pistons 113, Kings 106

Detroit equaled its victory high of last season with its 40th triumph as Dave Bing powered the Pistons past KC-Omaha. Bob Lanier scored 24 points in the Pistons' eighth consecutive home win — a club record.

Blazers 113, Suns 104

Rick Roberson hit a career-high 37 points as Portland broke a five-game losing string. The Blazers, winning only their second game in the last 16, received help from Sidney Wicks' 24 points. Phoenix was tagged with six technicals, including two against Coach John McLeod, which meant automatic rejection.

Bullets 107, Cavaliers 99

Kevin Porter scored 27 points and Mike Riordan added 23 for Capital as the Bullets beat Cleveland for the 13th straight time. Elvin Hayes and Archie Clark missed the game for the Bullets because of ailments.

Miller, Nicklaus In L.A. Field

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — After finishing in a four-way tie for fourth for a $6,249 payoff in the Bob Hope Desert Classic Sunday, blond-haired Johnny Miller had a strange observation.

The lanky Northern Californian who is entered in the Glen Campbell Los Angeles Open this week, must have higher than high standards for himself.

With six PGA winter tour events in the books, the 1973 U.S. Open champion has won more money than any pro golfer before him at this date—$100,942.

He has victories at the Bing Crosby Pro-Am, the Phoenix Open and the Dean Martin Tucson Open. And he has 20 par-or-better rounds this year.

Miller, who won't be 27 until April 29, finished eight shots behind winner Hubert Green at Palm Springs, Calif., and expressed concern about his 20 straight par and sub-par rounds.

"Maybe I'm thinking about that too much," he said. "I get three or four under and I think, 'Hey, I've got another round under par,' instead of going out and getting some more birdies.

"I didn't even have an average putting round all week and I finished 11 under," he sighed. "I guess I shouldn't be too upset, though."

Winner of his 52nd PGA event, the $220,000 Hawaiian Open at Honolulu two weeks ago, Jack Nicklaus will be here to face Miller in his third start of the year. He passed up the Desert Classic.

Those We Elect Look Out For Themselves

But such self-serving legislation is not limited to Sacramento. The fellows we send to Congress do the same sort of thing.

AN INSTANCE came to light when Assemblyman William T. Bagley did a little research for a bill to make sure that President Nixon does not escape taxes in both the District of Columbia and California.

Section 47.1551c of that code says that residents of the District of Columbia are subject to its income taxes, and that anyone who maintains an abode within the district for more than seven months of the taxable year shall be counted as a resident.

But then it says: This "shall not include any elected officer, or any employee on the staff of any elected officer in the legislative branch if such employee is a bona fide resident of the state of residents of such elected officer . . . (or) any officer of the executive branch whose appointment to office is by the president and subject to confirmation by Congress."

NOTICE HOW nicely our national lawmakers took care of their own! They don't have to pay District of Columbia taxes; neither do their employees. Neither does anyone appointed by the president subject to congressional confirmation (such as the director of internal revenue, for instance). But the rest of the national capitol work force — all those bureaucrats who work for the various government departments — have to pay. And District of Columbia income taxes are at a considerably higher rate than, for instance, California income taxes.

Pretty, isn't it?

And who do you suppose wrote the District of Columbia Tax Code? Why, our senators and congressmen, of course, for the District of Columbia has no legislature of its own.

BAGLEY figured out a simple way to make sure California congressmen and their employees, along with presidential appointees, don't escape taxes in both places.

The California code says that anyone domiciled here "other than on a temporary or transitory basis" must pay California income tax. Bagley proposes to amend this to specify that exactly those Californians exempted from District of Columbia taxes shall not be considered to be "on a temporary or transitory basis" here.

Sounds fair enough to us. And if the other 49 states would do the same, those gentlemen in Washington would turn out not to have looked out for their own interests quite so well after all.

Maybe then they could concentrate more on looking out for our interests.

ERNEST B. FURGURSON: Snowstorm Magic

WASHINGTON — What the nation's capital has needed all along is a good snowstorm.

People greeted this latest vagrant low-pressure area out of the south as eagerly as if it were adversity, and used it as an excuse to be friendly, even to laugh. People who have sneered at the idea of using public transit and continued commuting solo in their Dreadnought 8s found themselves forced to take the bus —and some of them found happiness. You could go for hours without hearing the president's name or any of the things that currently go with it.

THE DAY STARTED OUT downhill, but turned up. With a borrowed car whose tank was a quarter full, I wanted to top it off before returning it. So I got up long before dawn and went unshaven through the first flakes of snow to join the line at the neighborhood service station. Forty minutes of idling later, the tank was approaching empty and the sign said the limit was three dollars' worth.That much brought the needle back up to three-eighths.

Not a very rewarding effort, yet no one, not even your professional sourpuss, was unpleasant about it. Even then people were starting to feel that snowy day spirit.

There was mild disagreement at home about how we would go to work. Of course the car would stay home and keep warm. The question was whether to walk the four and a half miles or bus it. The answer was a combination of the two.

By the time we reached American University, the cold air was just starting to feel good in my lungs, but my wife was looking back over her shoulder for the bus. Like magic, one loomed in the downpour down the hill beyond at least 20 cars spinning and skidding along Massachusetts Avenue.

It was the N-5, the 8:15 express from Glen Echo, which normally does not stop within the city limits. But it did. A student with a suitcase and a head of hair that supported a high mound of snow had been waiting 35 minutes. Two fellows with alpine feathered hats boarded. I noticed that college-style hair and Afro naturals offer great insulation against the elements.

THE BUS DRIVER was smiling!

This phenomenon, far more unusual than the intrusion of a leisurely storm system from the region of Cape Hatteras, was contagious. People on the bus were talking and joking all around. Admitted, some of them had become old friends since they came aboard at Glen Echo. But newcomers joined in, admiring the driver's broken-field technique as he outflanked the line of spinning cars by straddling the center, then abandoning the bus route entirely to take off cross-country, up and down back streets most of the commuters had never seen before.

Temperamentally he was to the stubborn wheel-spinners on the avenue as O. J. Simpson is to Larry Csonka, but eventually even he got stuck. He was coming out of this anonymous side street into Wisconsin Avenue when his rear wheels spun to the curb and the bus blocked everything in both directions.

Everybody crowded to the back of the bus to put weight on the rear wheels. He tried, then tried and tried again — and succeeded. Everybody cheered.

On the way past the cathedral, he stopped and blew and waved to some waiting passengers headed diagonally to us. Come on, come on: The only example I ever witnessed of a bus driver actually recruiting riders.

When he dropped me off at DuPont Circle, I thanked him and waved farewell as all the other departing passengers had. Then I walked to the garage on 17th Street where my car was being tuned. Not only was it ready but the charge was less than I expected. The mechanic was full of goodwill. And he filled the tank for me, almost voluntarily.

DOWNTOWN SEEMED brighter under the gray sky than it has been during all the premature spring of the earlier winter. The undraped maiden handing the Marquis de Lafayette his sword beside Pennsylvania Avenue was set off nicely by her white mantle. Not a soul was demonstrating about anything, as far as the eye could see.

Surrounded and softened by the snow, its flag flying above the tracery of its elms, even the White House looked pure and clean, the way it is supposed to. The day was a small miracle, of a variety we had forgotten about here, and thus appreciated the more when it recurred.

When Is Recession Not Recession? When Herbert Stein Says It's Not

By GEORGE J. MARDER

Herbert Stein (no relation) tells us, however, that a recession is not a recession when most people may think it is a recession.

IN REPORTING on the 1974 economic outlook, Stein startled some by repudiating the commonly accepted definition of a recession: that when the economy falters or fails to grow over the period of a half year, the nation is in a recession.

The definition is really a simple one. It requires that in two successive quarters of the year, the Gross National Product (GNP) remain stationary or slip backward. Monthly figures are ignored because it is possible to get temporary distortions.

A backward slip over two successive quarters and nobody would have to be told it's a recession. The suffering would be so widespread everyone would know it. Recession also covers prolonged stagnancy because the population doesn't halt its growth just because the economy fails to grow. Rising unemployment, a sure sign of recession, goes side by side with a stagnant ecoomy.

AND SO, following the lead of President Nixon who assured the nation that there would be no recession this year, Stein talks about a "contraction" a "slowdown" a "dip," "possibly a decline," but no recession.

A "negative" increase is a contradiction in terms. It means, for all practical purposes, slipping backward. but still no recession.

And finally, Stein talks about a "revival" in the latter part of the year with upcoming events and policies determining when the revival will come and how strong it will be. But the "revival" will not be from a recession.

Overall, for the year, Stein acknowledges that the economic growth, at best, will probably be only about one per cent, after inflation is washed out of the value of the GNP.

STEIN PREDICTS inflation at something like seven per cent, worse than 1973, the highest increase since World War Two, topping the inflationary spurt of the Korean War.

Stein figured that the 1974 price increases would be seven per cent in the gross national product deflator, which is the standard used by most economists to measure inflation, or the consumer price index, which measures prices at retail. Last year, the GNP deflator rose 5.3 per cent while the CPI rose 8.8 per cent.

Just about the time that Stein's economic report was going to Congress along with a message from the president, Julius Shiskin, head of the government's Bureau of Labor Statistics, was telling members of Congress about the latest rise in unemployment.

Unemployment is up by almost half a million in the past three months. The last two times unemployment rose that sharply the nation headed right into recession. Shiskin is not supposed to forecast or even to advise the president, merely to report on statistics. But he acknowledged that it's possible the rise in unemployment will be followed by another recession.

Whatever it's called, one thing is certain: the effects of recession, like the odor of a rose, will not change by change of name. Apologies please to a predecessor of Gertrude Stein.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

State Suggests Some Standards For High School Graduation

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

The California Department of Education has taken the first step to try to undo by persuasion what was done by legislation two years ago.

The legislature in 1972 passed a California Teachers Association-backed bill, introduced by Assemblyman Leroy F. Greene, D-Sacramento, which wiped out state standards for high school graduation.

The standards weren't much. The George Miller Jr. Act of 1968 had mandated the state board to set minimum standards for high school graduation. The board had set them, however, in only two subjects reading and mathematics. And in those, it put them at the eighth grade competency level as shown by standard tests — eighth grade ability for 12th grade graduation.

Greene's 1972 bill (AB 665) repealed the Miller Act requirements. It specifically precluded the state from setting any standards. However, it provided that (1) each local board "shall adopt minimum academic standards for graduation from high school," and (2) "the State Board of Education shall...prepare and distribute . . . examples of minimum academic standards for graduation" — just as examples, not as requirements.

IN OVER A YEAR since that bill became law, most school boards have simply pretended that completion of the state course of study constitutes "minimum standards." State law requires that high school students take courses in English, American history and government, mathematics, science, and physical education. But it does not lay down any rules for what must be learned to complete them. Except for physical education, it does not even require attendance.

Until this week, the state itself appeared to be playing the same head-in-the-sand game as most local boards. But at tomorrow's meeting of the State Board of Education, Alexander I. Law, chief of program evaluation in the state superintendent's office, will present "examples of minimum academic standards."

Most of them are pretty simple. The state suggests (remember, it cannot require!) that to graduate from high school a student should be able to read a newspaper, read and understand instructions on voting machines and an income tax return short-form. He should be able to fill out a traffic accident report, write instructions for completing a simple job, and write a personal letter. He should be able to spell correctly all words on the Dolch basic word list, and write a paragraph with all words correctly spelled. He should also be able to use a dictionary to check spelling (rather hard to do if the student has no idea how a word is spelled).

He should know his multiplication tables up to 12 and be able to do simple addition, subtraction and division. He should be able to make change, reconcile a bank statement, and compute unit costs.

AT ONE POINT, however, it departs entirely from reality, suggesting that the potential graduate, "given a social problem, can identify implications for local, state and national government." This is something that presidents, congresses, governors, state legislatures, and local governing bodies have had small success in doing.

At any rate, the state has done its bit. It has at last offered high schools a proposed set of minimum standards for graduation. It is now up to local school boards to adopt these or other standards. Given the record to date, it is not very likely that many of them will do either.

THE NEW STATE examples raise another question. Last year's legislative session passed a bill by Assemblyman Willie L. Brown Jr., D-San Francisco (AB 372) which provides for a high school equivalency certificate for those who did not complete high school but are able to pass a test based on graduation requirements.

Will the state examples presemed this week be used as the basis for such a test? If so, it would appear that many of our youngsters can skip four years of high school and get the equivalency certificate right after completing eighth grade — unless, of course, they're thrown by trying to identify the national, state and local implications of a social problem, or can't find that word they don't know how to spell in the dictionary.

"The attorney general — what's his name again?"

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Fuel Shortage Part Of Vietnam War Cost

I haven't read or heard one word written or spoken about the possibility of the Vietnam War contributing to our present fuel shortage so I'll start my one-woman campaign to scream it from the so-called roof-tops.

What makes us think that we could have waged a war of such a long duration and one that was the longest transporting of mass troops in world history without having to pay the price for it — not just the immediate price of the loss and crippling of our youth and of our economy but of the present crisis of our fuel shortage?

The government dared not ration us during the war for it was already unpopular, but we cry out now, and rightfully so, for all the fuel that was spewed into transporting our brave but reluctant young men to a far-away Asiatic country where they were forced for so long to wage war both on the land as well as in the air.

And I hear say that we're still sending out oil to Vietnam today. If we should see another generation of Americans witness another threat to world security in that far-off land . . . then I shall raise my voice and say, if perhaps I won't say it right now, "It's time we be Americans for America! Let's show the rest of the world how to love and help each other; let's be an example to the rest of the world instead of a meddler; let's point them to the example of how men should be, Jesus the Christ." . . .

Dissent From Comments On Drake High Journalism

Since May 13, 1966, the Jolly Roger has continued to win national awards, showing clearly the injustice done to the occasionally ignored I-J. Certainly the obvious excellence of the I-J leaves you no recourse but to criticize constructively our declining school "newspapers."

I too miss the "squeals of delight" and regret that so much space is devoted to the condition of our Leader and to social services for troubled unchaste students.

Perhaps increased participation in athletics and continued vitality of other activities, including journalism, is not as relevant to school pride as are banquets attended by students voicing squeals of delight.

Please accept my "burst of applause" — sans squeals — for your relevant, probing comments.

'Youth And Law' Series Reflects Much Research

I would like to commend the Independent-Journal and particularly George Nevin for the excellence in reporting techniques revealed in the publication of five recent articles on juvenile court procedures and "Youth and Law."

Without exception everyone who has spoken to me concerning these articles has had nothing but the highest praise for the manner in which the series was presented and the context of the articles.

It is quite obvious that young George Nevin did a considerable amount of research work and spent many hours assembling the information which became the subject of his articles.

I know that I share the feelings of my colleagues when I sincerely commend this young man for his outstanding publication.

Why Stop With Lottery? There's Other Easy Money

By RUS WALTON

If 54 state assemblymen have their way, the State of California will get into the gambling business.

Those birds recently voted for a proposed constitutional amendment that would authorize a state-run lottery. If the measure is adopted by the State Senate (an even bet) and is signed by Governor Reagan, it will be on next November's ballot.

Assemblyman Leon Ralph, D-Watts, authored the amendment. He predicts that a state lottery would gross about $340 million a year, with one-half of that going to government. In most of the eight states that now operate such lotteries, 45 per cent of the gross goes to prizes, 15 per cent goes to administrative costs, and 40 per cent goes to government.

If the lottery Ralph and his colleagues envision goes for 50 cents a ticket, as is the case in other lottery states, $340 million gross would mean sales of at least 680 million tickets each year. That would average 49 tickets — $24.50 — for every adult Californian (age 18 and over).

ALISTER MCALISTER, D-San Jose, was one of the 26 assemblymen who fought the lottery idea. (William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, was another.)

"What we are really doing is putting government in the business of swindling its citizens," McAlister said.

McAlister was right on! Government has no business trafficking with lotteries, or gambling of any sort. The proper function of government is to govern well, not to be a party to immorality or to promote get-rich-quick schemes.

Some legislators and state officials see the lottery as a quick way to get some easy tax money, easier than raising taxes at a time when citizens rebel against increased taxation.

Eight states now run lotteries: Connecticut, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania. Ohio has one in the oven.

Since the lotteries first started (in New Hampshire in 1964) they have grossed about $1.2 billion. It is estimated $500 million has gone into state treasures. The states make money from the lottery at two ends, going in and coming out: from the "take" of the lottery gross and from income taxes on the winnings.

The New Hampshire lottery started out with quarterly drawings. As sales dropped, that was stepped up to monthly and then to weekly winners. Some states now have daily drawings and even "second'chance" sweepstakes to give losers an extra shot at winning. New York has gone in for off-track betting on dog and horse races in addition to the state lottery.

ASSEMBLYMAN RAY SEELEY, R-Blythe, hailed the lottery as "the most painless form of taxation". By such tortured reasoning, why stop with just a lottery? There is a lot more "easy" money around — immoral, but easy.

Why not change the lights on Babylon's dome to red, chop some of those offices into cubby holes, install a madame in the rotunda and get a "cut" or at least a tax take from the "girls"?

Think of all that easy money, that painless taxation!

Fumble Last Time Around Leads To Two More Charter Amendments

The San Rafael City Council recently disclosed that residents next June will be asked to hike from $2,500 to $3,500 the amount of money the city may spend before being required to call for bids.

This charter amendment proposal — which is in line with state law for non-charter cities — came as a surprise to some observers, since an amendment which the city administration had claimed would do just that was approved by voters last April.

But, because of a legal error by City Atty. Fred C. Robbins, last April's proposal did not in fact accomplish what voters — and city officials — thought it would.

ROBBINS' AMENDMENT changed only one of two relevant sections of the charter. It hiked from $2,500 to $3,500 the amount the city may spend before being required to let out public works contracts for competitive bidding.

It failed to mention a second section of the charter, and thus did not affect the charter's $2,500 lid on the purchase of "supplies, materials, machinery or equipment" the city may make without competitive bidding.

The result is that the city is able to spend up to $3,500 on public works projects without going to bid, but is limited to spending only $2,500 without going to bid on general service contracts.

"It just slipped past me," Robbins said of the error.

Perhaps so. And there is some merit to the claim that the city is in need of a full-time city attorney. Robbins, an elected official retained on a part-time basis, is swamped with a mammoth workload. It is a workload that will not decrease.

The competitive bidding matter will appear on the June ballot alongside an amendment to make the city attorney appointive, and not elective.

THE REACTION of San Rafael planning commissioners to the city's preliminary general plan is as varied as the makeup of the commission itself.

Commissioner James Dougan is most critical of the plan. "I don't endorse this plan, there's no doubt about that," he declared. "I was hoping for something much more definitive."

Colleague Alan Kay also has reservations about the document. "I think the plan is too general," he said. "It is nothing but an outline."

Commissioners John A. Starkweather, Albert A. Boro and Donn E. Nissen have been more timid with their comment, saying only they have no strong reaction one way or the other.

Vote Predicted On Impeachment

CHICAGO (UPI) — Rep. John Anderson, R-Ill., thinks the House Judiciary Committee will vote on impeachment of President Nixon by April 30.

Anderson, third-ranking Republican in the House, told an impromptu news conference yesterday that he refused to place any significance in a statement by former New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller that the impeachment process should proceed.

"He was simply saying that the House Judiciary Committee should vote on impeachment by April 30, which I think will happen."

Europe's Oil Crisis Dims; Price Increases Remain

By PETER C. STUART

LONDON — Two months ago at the height of the oil crisis, Western Europeans winced at such headlines as "Petrol Rationing by Christmas" and "Will Europe Run Dry?"

Today they might be pardoned for asking, "What oil crisis?"

Since those doomsday scares, Western Europe's shortage of fuel is fast being replaced by a shortage of fuel restrictions:

The only two nations in the region to impose gasoline rationing, Sweden and The Netherlands, have scrapped it. Two others, Britain and Norway, have postponed a decision.

Three countries (West Germany, Belgium, and Norway) have lifted Sunday driving bans — leaving only Italy and Denmark off-limits on the Sabbath.

Gasoline stations, once closed on week ends in five nations, now remain shut only in Italy, Denmark, and Portugal (with all-week end closing hours in the latter recently cut to just half-a-day on Sunday).

"THINGS ARE MUCH less restricted than they were a few months ago," confirms an official of one of Europe's largest motoring organizations, the four-million-member British Automobile Association.

What happened? The Arab oil producers much-publicized 25 per cent cutoff to Western Europe is being offset by two developments:

2. Diversion of oil shipments from non-Arab suppliers, such as Nigeria and Venezuela.

In the supposedly totally boycotted Netherlands, oil deliveries in Rotterdam — an important tanker port, virtually the "petrol pump of Europe" — are said to have actually increased 12.5 per cent for January over December.

Dutch Economics Minister Ruud Lubbers cited "a difference of 15 per cent between supply and demand" in canceling his country's gasoline rationing Feb. 4.

In Sweden, the first European nation to ration gasoline, oil shipments at Stockholm are reported to have risen 22 per cent between mid-1973 and the end of the year.

In Britain, queues at petrol stations in the London area — where supplies were cut by oil companies for a few weeks — have all but disappeared. Even trading stamps are back.

BUT THE OIL SCARE is leaving a few lasting hardships across Western Europe.

Speed limits remain lower — typically about 62 miles per hour on expressways and 50 m.p.h. on other roads.

And gasoline prices remain exasperatingly high. "The situation is bad now only from the point of view of price," says the British Automobile Assocition official.

Gasoline has soared from a continent-wide average of about 85 cents per gallon of high grade one year ago to about $1.36 per gallon today. The price climbs as high as $1.84 per gallon in Portugal and $1.56 per gallon in France, according to the AA.

New View Of Nixon's Feeling On Watergate

ATHENS, Ohio (UPI) — Former U.S. Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson said last night President Nixon should have done more to invite competing points of view in difficult decisions of judgment in dealing with Watergate.

Honor Musicians' Festival Is Set

The eighth annual Marin County Honor Music Festival will be held March 8, 9 and 10 and will be highlighted by a "festival concert" on March 10 at 7:30 p.m. in the Marin Veterans' Memorial Building.

About 400 music students from Marin's schools will participate in an honor chorus, honor orchestra and honor band during the three-day event, according to Leo F. Catalano, music instructor at White Hill School and co-chairman of the festival.

School districts will nominate students for the honor groups based on a predetermined ratio, he said. Students will then participate in rehearsals March 8 and 9.

Guest conductors who will direct the students in final rehearsals March 10 and at the festival concert are Laurence Short, orchestra director of Burlingame High School; John Land, choral director of Lowell High School, San Francisco, and John Schuster, band director of Petaluma High School.

The festival is sponsored by music teachers of Marin schools, Marin County Schools Office, Masonic Lodges of Marin and the Fairfax and Novato school districts.

New Cable Car In An Accident

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The city's only new cable car had its first accident yesterday —with a Municipal Railway bus —four persons were injured.

Gripman Thomas Neary couldn't stop the cable car from rolling down Powell Street because of wet track and it collided with the bus which had halted in the Sutter Street intersection, a system spokesman said.

The car had been built last spring to celebrate the 100th anniversary of cable car service.

Damages were estimated at $1,000 and the four injured persons were treated at a hospital and released.

Death Squadron Kills Four More

GUATEMALA CITY (UPI) — A death squadron promising to "eliminate all kinds of criminals" claimed four more victims yesterday. It brought to 11 the number of persons killed by the secret group since Feb. 1.

Newspapers received a communique saying "because the police were not capable of stopping the wave of criminality that Guatemala is suffering, we will take justice in our own hands by eliminating all kinds of criminals."

Only one of the four shooting victims, found yesterday on a nearby coffee plantation, was identified. He was Cesar Augusto Navas Rios, 21, who had been arrested for rape.

That 'Lost' California Subpoena Finally Makes It To Washington

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Postal Service has found and delivered a historic presidential subpoena that got lost in routing and chugged crosscountry by surface mail like any ordinary package.

White House spokesmen had already indicated President Nixon would "respectfully decline" the subpoena to testify at the California trial of three alleged "White House plumbers" —but the question unanswered until yesterday was, what happened to it?

Los Angeles Superior Court Judge Gordon Ringer signed the subpoena and had it posted "certified mail" on Feb. 5, intended for air mail letter delivery to the White House. When it did not arrive in reasonable time, postal officials admitted it had gone astray.

Yesterday, a postal official said the letter transmitting the subpoena apparently was delayed because "it looked like a package" and traveled surface carrier from Los Angeles.

A formal statement said only: "The letter was delivered this morning. We traced it and found that it was dated as having been sent by surface mail from Los Angeles some time on Feb. 5."

A Postal Service source said the letter was flat in shape, resembling a package more than a letter, and had no outside "rush" markings.

They have been indicted on charges of conspiracy and burglary in the 1971 break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsburg's psychiatrist, allegedly the act of White House plumbers directed by Ehrlichman.

Ehrlichman's attorneys asked that Nixon testify in support of their client's contention he should not be subject to trial because he was functioning at the time as a federal law enforcement official.

There is a chance the subpoena could be quashed in court without Nixon rejecting it. A Washington , D.C., court must rule whether the California document is valid in the District of Columbia.

In other Watergate developments:

Senate Watergate committee counsel Samuel Dash said Tuesday he expects the panel headed by Sen. Sam E. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., to reopen public hearings on the Howard Hughes $100,000 campaign contribution and dairy industry political donations, possibly in late April.

Ehrlichman's attorney disclosed Ehrlichman was interviewed by the Senate Watergate committee for four hours last week, describing his testimony as "not much."

Freshman Parent Session Scheduled

The Petaluma High School counseling department will present an information session at 7:30 p.m. today for parents of eighth grade students who will attend high school next fall.

Faculty members from all departments will be on hand to answer questions. The meeting will be in the high school's multi-purpose room, according to Principal Gerald J. Dadey.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Behr Wins Senate Victory In Fight To Save Herring

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Senate has cleared the way for swift action to prevent the "rape" of herring in San Francisco and Tomales Bays.

Sen. Peter Behr, R-San Rafael, yesterday was granted permission, on a 31-1 vote, to waive normal procedures for consideration of his "urgency" bill (SB1703) to curb herring fishing in the bays.

Behr was allowed to schedule the measure for a hearing today by the Senate Natural Resources Committee without waiting the normal 30 days after it is introduced. He said the bill was designed to stop the "rape of the herring."

The lawmaker said his bill was aimed at closing a "loophole" in a state law which commercial fishermen are using to avoid a limit on the tonnage of herring allowed to be caught.

The current state law fixing a limit on herring catches does not apply to herring caught for bait. Behr declared the 500-ton limit for San Francisco Bay has been exceeded by 600 tons by fishermen who said they were seeking bait fish.

MERCURY HAZARD

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The California dental industry does not adequately protect its employes from mercury contamination, a state Department of Health report said today.

The report, prepared with $30,000 in funds authorized by the state legislature in 1971 to examine statewide mercury use, concluded that utilization of the deadly silver substance in California was "at its lowest point in modern times."

It also said further reductions could be expected.

"The downward trend is due in part to recent awareness of environmental effects (of mercury) and to effective restrictions by control agencies," said the 127-page study.

But it also pointed out that an industry-by-industry survey of state mercury users showed the dental profession accounted for the largest yearly amount of the deadly poison.

"While proper handling and disposal methods result in no public health hazards, most dentists take no special precautions with respect to preventing contamination of their office equipment by mercury," it added.

The report also said that dental assistants "who prepare and handle mercury amalgams (used in making tooth cements) are at greatest risk from exposure to mercury vapor..."

Dental patients, however, face no risk because the mercury amalgams are chemically inert during treatment, the report said.

SMOKING BILL

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A controversial bill aimed at establishing special student smoking areas in California high schools has advanced to the Assembly floor.

The Senate-passed bill cleared the Assembly Education Committee yesterday on a 9- 5 vote. The Assembly has passed similar measures in past years but they were killed in the Senate.

The measure (SB71) by Sen. Arlen Gregorio, D-San Mateo, would permit school districts to set aside special smoking areas in high schools but still penalize students who smoke outside of the specified zones.

Gregorio, a nonsmoker, said his bill would greatly reduce the current widespread illegal smoking by students in restricted areas such as restrooms.

But Assemblyman Robert Burke, R-Huntington Beach, said the measure would tend to encourage student smoking and school officials could not prevent smoking in areas outside of the special designated zones.

CYCLE HELMETS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California motorcyclists must be required to wear protective helmets if the state is to meet federal highway safety standards, according to the state Office of Traffic Safety.

In its annual report on California traffic safety, the office yesterday also said children would have to be required to fasten seat belts when riding school buses equipped with belts to bring the state in line with the federal standards.

To meet the nationwide standards, the report said California also would have to register commercial vehicles according to gross weight, require quantitative tests for alcohol on all surviving drivers in fatal collisions, and more stringently define what types of accidents must be immediately reported to authorities.

Trucking Traffic Back To Normal

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Despite a few holdouts, truck traffic throughout the nation was back to normal today. National Guardsmen who had been activated to safeguard highways during the strike were returning to civilian life.

W.J. Usery Jr., President Nixon's labor advisor, said yesterday trucking "has substantially returned to normal with nearly all trucks rolling again" since a government-trucker agreement was reached last week guaranteeing truckers supplies of fuel and allowing them to pass higher fuel prices on to shippers.

Highways across Pennsylvania through the West Virgina Panhandle and into Ohio had been among those plagued most with violence as striking truckers sought to bring all rigs to a halt.

Usery, who has been meeting with independent truckers' groups to explain the government's settlement, yesterday spoke in Ohio and Minnesota.

"Industries which were forced to lay off workers because of interruptions in truck service are recalling those employes," he said. "Grocery shelves are being restocked."

In Kansas City, Mo., about 400 independent truckers turned down the recommendation of their president, J.E. (River Rat) Edwards, who called for an end to the strike.

The dissidents coupled criticism of Edwards with a vote to continue the protest at least until today when another vote will be taken.

GERALD R. FORD

Ford Trips Planned To Dispel Gloom

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President Gerald R. Ford is embarking on a three-state trip in his role as GOP fund raiser and dispeller of Watergate gloom in an election year.

Ford planned a late afternoon trip to London, Ky., today for a dinner speech, then a round of meetings in Chicago tomorrow capped by a Cancer Society speech and finally a round of appearances and a dinner speech Friday in Omaha, Neb.

Since his Dec. 6 confirmation by Congress as Spiro T. Agnew's successor, Ford has been in demand from local and state GOP organizations openly concerned about the effect of Watergate on the November congressional elections.

This week's swing is his most ambitious and indicates a stepping up in Ford's travels which up to now have been overnight affairs.

Campaigning is not new for Ford who traveled extensively throughout the nation for eight years as House Republican Leader on behalf of GOP congressional candidates.

His message has been that Republicans should not despair over Watergate but should take a positive approach of support for President Nixon, emphasizing administration achievements in ending the draft, bringing Americans home from Vietnam and drafting an "effective" program to combat inflation and the energy crisis if only the Democratic-controlled Congress will cooperate.

Ford has been well-received wherever he has traveled, and he is the first to admit that part of the turnout has been due to public curiosity to see in person Agnew's successor and the first vice president ever elected by Congress.

Today is Wednesday, Feb. 13, the 44th day of 1974 with 321 to follow.

The moon is in its last quarter. The morning stars are Venus and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn.

French statesman Maurice Talleyrand was born Feb. 13, 1974.

On this day in history:

In 1635, the oldest public institution in America — the Boston Latin School — was founded.

In 1914, the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers was formed.

In 1945, Russian troops took Budapest after 49 days of fighting in which more than 50,000 German troops were killed.

In 1968, the United States shipped 10,500 more troops to South Vietnam.

A thought for the day: French Statesman Maurice Talleyrand said, "Women sometimes forgive a man who forces the opportunity, but never a man who misses one."

South Must Not Be Impatient; Save Those Trumps For Ruffing

One of the maxims in Poor Alfred's Almanac tells you that the time to eat your cake is while you still have it. Apply this rule to dummy's trumps.

South dealer
North-South vulnerable

NORTH
♠ K 7 6 2
♡ A Q 8 5 2
◇ K 5 4

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 ♣ | Pass | 1 ♡ | Pass |
| 1 ♠ | Pass | 4 ♠ | All Pass |

Opening lead — ◇ 2

SOUTH DOOMED

Declarer won the first diamond in dummy with the king, drew two rounds of trumps with the ace and king, and then led dummy's singleton club. West won with the ace of clubs and drew a third round of trumps with his jack. This was the blow that doomed South.

West led another diamond to South's ace, and South cashed a high club to discard dummy's losing diamond. His next step was to try the heart finesse. East won with the king of hearts and returned a diamond to force out dummy's last trump.

DOWN ONE

South had already lost three tricks and eventually had to give up another club trick. Down one.

The correct play is to lead a club from the dummy at the second trick, allowing the trumps to wait for a better time. West takes the ace of clubs and leads another diamond. South wins the ace of diamonds and leads a high club to discard the losing diamond from dummy.

LET TRUMPS WAIT

It is still too early to draw trumps. South should try the heart finesse first. East wins with the king of hearts and returns a diamond to make dummy ruff.

At last South can afford to draw two rounds of trumps with the king and ace. This leaves one trump in dummy so that South can eventually ruff his low club. The opponents will not get the chance to draw a third trump, and the contract is safe.

DAILY QUESTION

You hold:
♠ - K 7 6 2
♥ - A Q 8 5 2
♦ - K 5 4
♣ - 6.

ANSWER: Bid two hearts.

You intend to bid four spades at your next turn, thus showing not only your strength but also something about its location. A raise to three spades at your first turn would give less information.

Board Election

A new board of directors will be elected by the Greenbrae Property Owners' Association at its annual meeting Feb. 21 at 8 p.m. in Adaline E. Kent School.

A Snow Festival Finally Scheduled

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — The state-sponsored Punderson Snow Festival will be held this weekend at Punderson State Park in northern Ohio.

The event had originally been scheduled for mid-January but was postponed because of nice weather

BEST SHOWS FOR TONIGHT

KTVU (2), 8 p.m. — Alexander Scourby narrates "The Amazon," a National Geographic episode featuring Pierre Gaiseau, award-winning filmmaker and explorer who spent years in the Amazon to challenge its domain. Segments focus on the primitive jungle tribes who live along the river.

KGO (7), KNTV (11), 8:30 p.m. — Dick Van Dyke makes his television dramatic debut in the tragic story of a successful public relations writer whose refusal to accept the fact that he is an alcoholic causes him to lose his family, his career, his self-respect and almost his life in "The Morning After."

KQED (9), 8:30 p.m. — Genevieve Bujold, Fritz Weaver and Stacy Keach head the cast in Jean Anouilh's bold drama, "Antigone," a Theater in America presentation based on the Sophocles classic about the universal struggle between passion and reason.

KGO (7), KNTV (11), 11:30 p.m. — "The Unofficial Miss Las Vegas Showgirl Beauty Pageant" stars Steve Allen as host and Phyllis Diller as color commentator in a spoof of beauty contests everywhere. Taped at the Hotel Tropicana in Las Vegas, the nine contesting showgirls represent a like number of Las Vegas Strip hotels and are judged by Jayne Meadows, Henny Youngman and Prof. Irwin Corey.

Hotel Manager Finally Dumps Heating Oil

Queen, manager of the Milner Hotel, was in a predicament earlier this month when he discovered that he had 1,800 gallons of heating oil he didn't need following conversion of the heating system in his 58-room hotel.

In vain he had attempted to get rid of the oil, estimated to be worth about $800, by offering to sell it to a dozen dealers but "They turned me down. They claimed their tanks were full and they had no room for it."

In desperation, Queen, 43, finally told his plight to the news media and offered to give the oil away to anyone who would take it. The Boston Housing Authority jumped at the chance. The oil will go into a housing authority pool for use at various units around the city.

Judge Doesn't Believe Story

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy (UPI) — Duchess Marina Lante della Rovere said the unprintable word was addressed to her male escort and not flung at the policeman she found slipping a parking ticket under the windshield of her car.

Judge Aniello La Monica did not believe her. He convicted the 34-year-old Roman noblewoman and boutique owner of insulting public officials and damaging public property. He gave her a suspended sentence of six months and 25 days in jail.

Only One Cardboard Collector

It is illegal for anyone but the Novato Disposal Service to collect cardboard in Novato, the Novato Sanitary District board has agreed.

The board voted Monday night to have Charles A. Joseph, engineer-manager, write to all commercial establishments advising them of this.

A representative of the Novato Disposal Service told the board that Marin Environmental Co-op has placed containers for collecting cardboard in shopping centers for recycling it, Joseph reported. The Novato Disposal Service has an exclusive franchise on picking up cardboard for recycling, Joseph said.

The Novato Sanitary District board also:

PLANS — Approved plans for 52 unit condominium apartments in Ignacio near Galli's restaurant for Frank Galli.

BIDS — Set March 11 to receive bids on a new sewer routing machine and a boat and trailer to be used to take samples of water in San Pablo Bay past the sewer outfall line.

TIME — Extended from this coming Saturday to June 30 the date for completion of the sewers in Marin Oaks Unit 3 off Vineyard Road.

HEARINGS — Set Feb. 25 for public hearings on new ordinances regulating sewer connections to condominium apartments and setting a fee when the district must make environmental impact reports.

Channel 44 Will Launch New Series On Saturday

Crime, drug abuse, alcoholism, and the methods Bay Area men and women have used to rise above them are subjects of a new television series which will be launched Saturday by KBHK, Channel 44, in San Francisco.

According to producer Art Freeman, "People With Purpose," Kaiser's first locally produced prime time series, will make its debut at 8 p.m.

Freeman said while the talk show faces stiff competition from some of network programming's biggest guns, "All In The Family" and "The Partridge Family," he is confident there is a large audience available for the half hour program.

"The show will provide some truly eye opening experiences from people who have made amazing changes in their lives," he added. "Many of these guests will be well-known figures, but all share a direction and purpose to their lives which is extremely impressionable."

The show's host is also new to the television scene. Dr. Harold Lane is pastor of the First Baptist Church in Menlo Park and it was his ministry within his church and community that sparked the concept for the program. The 44-year-old Midwesterner came to the Bay Area five years ago and in that short period his ambitious youth and criminal outreach projects have sparked a fire of interest among his congregation that has swelled its ranks tenfold.

DR. HAROLD LANE
Will host new show

"One of the most exciting experiences I have ever witnessed is the transformation a person undergoes after successfully grappling with a personal crisis," Lane said. "To the person with the strength to overcome his failings, the development of a new purposeful life is tremendously rewarding. I hope to uncover the story behind this development to show people with similar problems that they can be helped and to demonstrate to people who have yet to reach this crisis period —especially the young — that they can avoid it with proper guidance."

Derk Zimmerman, program director for KBHK, said that the program is scheduled for TV's highest viewing time because the station feels that the program should be available to the whole family.

"Over 60 per cent of all TV households have their sets on during this time period — more than any other time of the week," he added. "And the majority of audiences are family units. We feel that "People With Purpose" is important enough to warrant this visability because we should be responsible for presenting dialogue which is meaningful as well as entertaining."

Valentine's Day Gift Suggestions

Like so many other gift giving occasions Valentine's Day finds many people who have yet to buy a gift for their sweetheart. To solve that last minute rush here are a few popular gift ideas from Strawberry Town and Country Village.

Since her promotion to manager at the Little Daisy, Patti Marsh has included a much larger selection of sleepwear which ranges from hot colored shorties to more elegant, long fashioned gowns. The Little Daisy has a wrapping service also just for this kind of occasion.

The more personal gift is not only for women. There's new and exciting gift merchandise for men too. Valentine's Day is becoming a novelty gift day for men. At C. Partan's Men's Clothing you will find underclothing with happy hearts adorning the material — fun gifts designed for men with a sense of humor.

If your man is country and western inclined look over the western style shirts at Carlton's Menswear. If your sweetheart looks exceptionally well in black, there is an embroidered shirt with red roses that might catch your eye.

Considering Valentine's Day as a love devoted day appropriate gifts could include love oils, musk oil for him and a fragrant selection from one of the essences for her from the variety at Imports International. Check over the selection of new potions for the bath. Sensuous relaxation is the key here to gift selections for men and women.

If your man is a playboy at heart, let him know you're his year 'round playgirl by selecting a calendar from the selection at Ideal Stationers. Or, if he is a serious natured man, he'll probably enjoy a chess set, but be sure you know how to play because it takes two.

The romanticism of Valentine's Day probably cannot be matched by any other nationally celebrated day or birthday during the year.

Shops Feature Special Valentine's Day Gifts

St. Valentine's Day arises from traditions dating back many hundreds of years. During the old Roman February feast, Lupercalia, young men and women drew partners by lot for the coming of the feast. Later, ancient festival customs were associated to the Christian bishop, Valentine, who was martyred Feb. 14, 271.

Today, lovers the world over of all ages exchange sentimental expressions through cards, gifts, flowers and candies.

St. Valentine traditions are expressed in the brightly trimmed windows along the ivy-covered sidewalks of Strawberry Town and Country Village. Red as a color has come to symbolize the expressions of love on Valentine's Day and can be found in splashes of different hued reds in the Village.

Mutts Of Marin Owner Is Show Winner Again

Marin resident Anne Keleman breeds and shows the rare Tibetan Terrier. Her champion dog, Tasha TiSong won best of breed at the recent 64th Annual Golden Gate Kennel Club Dog Show held at the Cow Palace. Over 2,650 purebred dogs competed in the show.

Miss Keleman reported that 'Pi', Tasha TiSong's nickname, has won 20 best of breed awards, three group placings and has been selected as the all-time Tibetan Terrier in the United States to date. She added that in Marin County there are only four dogs which have won best of breed awards.

Miss Keleman has been breeding terriers for seven years now and is only one of two breeders on the West Coast. She previously bred cocker spaniels, two of which were championship winners. Now she is also interested in cats and intends to breed and show them. She owns two persians, a Himalayan, and a Abyssinian.

Miss Keleman lives in Novato and has owned and operated Mutts of Marin at Strawberry Town and Country Village for five years where she carries pet supplies and grooms both dogs and cats.

When asked for pointers on the purchase of a purebred animal, she advised contacting a reputable breeder of the kind of dog or cat one is interested in buying.

"Each dog or cat breed is very different and there is no one authority who has infinite knowledge about all breeds," she said.

She also recommended reading the Dog Encyclopedia which lists information about different breeds and which most pet and grooming shops such as Mutts of Marin carries.

New Shopping Hours Announced

Strawberry Town & Country Village manager, James Webb, has announced that Friday nights are the new centerwide shopping night.

Marin shoppers may now enjoy the convenience of shopping until 9 p.m. in the Village.

Patricia Rist Heads A Workshop

Selected to head one of the four workshops during the annual convention of the National Decorating Products Association in November and held at Minneapolis was Mrs. Patricia Rist. She headed the wallcoverings display workshop.

Its purpose was to demonstrate visually good point-of-purchase wallcoverings displays, shop window treatments and examples of in-store displays and how these displays stimulate sales.

Retailers attending the convention also attended workshops on store expansion, spray equipment, and the outside salesman.

Mrs. Rist operates the wallpaper and paint store, Hues and Views, in Strawberry's Town and Country Village, with her husband, Ted.

Mrs. Rist was the first woman elected to the NDPA board in its 26-year history and represents the 12 western states and Hawaii.

Cherry Pies Are To Be Given Away

Born Feb. 22, 1732, son of a wealthy Virginia planter, Washington was destined to become commander-in-chief of the army in the War for Independence. Following this, he served two terms as the first president of the United States.

Little known is that he was actually more interested in agriculture and farming instead of governing. He was a successful landowner, a grower of wheat and tobacco, and an exporter of fish and flour to the West Indies.

Affluence as a successful landowner during the early years of our American past demanded participation and acceptance of community responsibilities in local government. This was the beginning for a man who served the American people during the formative years of government.

In honor of Washington's Birthday, hundreds of special cherry pies will be given away Monday, Feb. 18th at 10 a.m., through the courtesy of the Original Hick'ry Pit Restaurant.

Postal Unit Extending Open Hours

Bill Bessing, postmater of Strawberry's Town and Country Village substation, located in Gibraltar Savings and Loan, Mill Valley, has announced longer hours for the convenience of Marin patrons.

The branch will be open from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m., and then will reopen at 2 p.m. until 4 p.m., Monday through Friday, and Saturdays, 10 a.m. until 3 p.m.

Job Outlook Is Grim For Grads

STANFORD (UPI) — The director of university relations at Stanford University predicts the current lack of jobs for college graduates may continue through the 1970s.

In a report to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Frank Newman and his task force noted that technology does create more jobs than it destroys but the jobs often call for less skilled workers.

Newman said in the last few years, a recession and a slowdown in research and development funds has contributed to the decrease in demand for college-trained employees.

Coffee Success Assured With A Proper Mixture

Hildy Sarkissian, owner of the Caravansary — the coffee, tea and spice store in Town and Country Village — has a few suggestions for homemakers designed to insure coffee success.

To assure a hot cup of coffee, Mrs. Sarkissian suggests heating the pot first by pouring boiling water into it and getting it well heated.

Mr. and Mrs. Sarkissian also co-operate the Caravansary location at Chestnut Street in San Francisco. It's a warm, welcome retreat among the businesses along the Marina area. The Chestnut Caravansary has a strong Armenian flavor and is run by Setrak and his friend, Khajak. Brimming over with fine cheeses, wines, and coffee beans, you may find yourself seated at a red-checkered table in the aroma filled haven at the back of the shop delighted with a gourmet menu which includes lentil soup, spinach quiche, home-made brioches and mouth melting cheeses.

Surprise appearances by Andy Williams, and Paul Bocuse, famous Paris chef, and by Herb Caen have highlighted the dinner hour at the Caravansary.
